OIL POLICY TO HELP CURTAIL NEW DRILLING

Basic Purpose of Hoover Conservation Move Is to Limit Production

TO ACT AS STABILIZER

Executive's Experience on Board Has Made Him Familiar With Problems

Washington—Conservation of natural resources which wrought a series of controversies in the Roosevelt administration has been undertaken with significant determination by President Hoover.

Announcement that no oil lands would be leased without a mandate from congress was at first believed to be due to a desire on the part of the new president to avoid any such scandals as arose over Teapot Dome and other leases. But while this is an incidental benefit, the basic purpose of the Hoover policy is conservation—something the oil industry has struggled to achieve by voluntary cooperation and by state laws curtailing production.

Mr. Hoover, as a member of the federal oil conservation board for the last few years, has entered the White House thoroughly familiar with the pros and cons of the oil excess problems. He knows it as acute as the farm surplus. It so happens that one-tenth of the nation's petroleum supply is believed to be conserved in government lands that have not yet been opened to entry by settlers in the west. The withholding arbitrarily of such a large amount of oil as a stabilizer to keep down the total production while the industry gets a chance to permit the consumption requirements to catch up with the excessive supply.

KEEP MARKET STEADY

For many months some of the leaders of the American bar have been trying to formulate a federal program of legislation which would permit restricted drilling operations and prevent the wild-catting operations from bringing into production suddenly a supply of oil that would disturb the markets and depress the oil business. The federal government, it has been asserted could prevent any combination of oil producers from curtailing production as the Sherman Anti-Trust law could be invoked on the ground that this would be an restraint of trade or that the price fixing provisions of the law might be considered as violated.

The oil men have approached the problem more with the idea of conserving the nation's fuel supply

LABOR MEN IN ATTACK ON SMALL LOAN ACT

Madison — (P) — The Wisconsin small loans act of the latest legislature was called an "outrageous burden on the backs of the poor man" by representatives of organized labor and others before the assembly committee on insurance and banking Thursday afternoon.

The legislative committee heard their remarks, largely in favor of the Lacy bill reducing the legal interest rate from 3 1/2 per cent per month to 2 1/2 per cent. They either favored the bill or repeal of the old law, which they said legalized loan sharks.

Senator P. J. Smith, Eau Claire, favoring the bill, summed up his case against the present law with:
"It was a law passed to help the poor man—yes, to keep the poor man poorer."

Labor representatives who argued for the rate reduction the bill would bring included John T. Corbett, Beloitt, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; Gardner Withrow, La Crosse, former assemblyman representing the Order of Railroad Conductors; F. J. Lawton, of the same order, and Floyd Green, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. They will further the argument when the hearing is re-convened next week.

Bus Fare Bill Ordered Engrossed By Assembly

HOOVER WON'T PUSH HIS OWN AID MEASURE

Will Outline Views in Message but Won't Attempt to Dictate Terms

BY JAMES L. WEST
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

Washington — (P) — President Hoover has no intention of undertaking to dictate either the terms or the name of the farm relief bill to be considered at the special session of congress — a measure which he expects will form the basis for a solution of the agricultural problem.

While he will outline his views on the subject in his message at the opening of the extraordinary session April 15, he looks to the house and senate agriculture committees to work out a constructive measure which has been or will be submitted for their consideration.

Meanwhile, he will hold himself in readiness to consult with members of the committee at any time they may desire his opinion or advice. He already has talked about farm relief with a number of the congressional leaders and frequent visits by members of the agriculture committee to the White House during the formative stages of the legislation are expected.

The chief executive's plan of relationship with congress on farm relief is an indication of the course he will follow on other legislation.
He holds to the constitutional stipulation for three separate and distinct branches of the federal government and consequently feels that the administrative branch should refrain from undertaking to influence the legislative branch unduly in the performance of its functions.

NAME IS DOUBTFUL

There has been conjecture of late as to what name the new farm measure should bear with the suggestion made in some quarters that an unfortunate psychological effect might be produced if it bore the title "McNary-Haugen," the same as the bill which twice ran upon the rocks of a presidential veto in the Coolidge administration.

This argument is believed to carry no weight with President Hoover, who naturally expects it to be introduced in the Senate by Chairman Haugen of the agriculture committee, and so make the name of the author as the almost invariable custom.

The McNary bill, which was introduced at the last session of congress and failed of action after both President Coolidge and Mr. Hoover had refrained from urging its passage, probably will form the basis at least for first consideration of the whole relief question by the senate committee.

This measure has been described as the original McNary-Haugen bill with the controversial equalization fee eliminated. It provided for a revolving fund of $250,000,000 for use in controlling the exportable surplus of the major crops and also for the creation of a farm board and of stabilization corporations.

LINDY IS BUSY MAPPING OUT NEW AIRMAIL ROUTE

Brownsville, Texas — (P) — His three week visit at Mexico City with his fiancée, Miss Anne Morrow, ended, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh Friday turned to his task of mapping out a new air route across the continent for his company, Transcontinental Air transport.

The Lone Eagle, who piloted a regular air mail plane to Brownsville from the Mexican Capital Thursday over the route he opened last Saturday, planned to take off Friday morning in his own ship for a destination he declined to announce. It was presumed, however, that he would go to New York and then dispose of matters awaiting his attention in connection with the transcontinental air route.

Four Mexican government aviators were among the group of passengers who made the trip from Mexico with the colonel. They came to the border to accept delivery of four planes purchased in Troy, Ohio, by the Mexican government for use in fighting the rebels.

Colonel Lindbergh's return to the United States apparently ended any prospect for an immediate marriage to the daughter of the American ambassador to Mexico. As usual he was silent on the subject.

THINK BADGER SOLONS DON'T GET ENOUGH PAY

WAUSAU — (P) — The wages of Wisconsin's lawmakers are inadequate, the Wausau Central Labor union declared Thursday night. The opinion was expressed in a resolution in which it gave its support to the referendum on a constitutional change to permit the legislators' salaries to be raised.

REBELS PLAN FOR DEFENSE OF TORREON

Will Give Battle to Calles, Chief Says — Federals
Are in Durango

BULLETIN

Washington — (P) — Large amounts of war materials, including tear gas, arms and ammunition have been ordered from American manufacturers by the Mexican government.

Mexico City — (P) — Col. Ricardo Tapa, chief of the presidential staff, announced Friday that cavalry constituting the advance guard of General Calles' army occupied Durango Friday morning.

The forces of Rebel General Juan Gutierrez Amaya were stated to have fled from Durango.

General Calles himself was expected to reach the city shortly to establish headquarters in preparation for a march on Torreon, the rebel stronghold, upon which five federal columns are now converging.

Torreon, Coahuila, Mexico — (P) — Revolutionary forces concentrated here have no intention of evacuating Torreon in the face of the reported advance of Mexican government armies. General Jose Gonzalo Escobar, rebel commander-in-chief, declared Friday in a statement to the Associated Press.

Rebel troops movements in this vicinity in the last few days have been merely for maneuvering purposes, General Escobar said. He declared null and void all penal action for political crimes in the republic prior to March 3, 1929.

(By The Associated Press.)

Battle lines between federal and revolutionists around the strategic city of Torreon grew closer Friday as powerful rival armies were reported advancing on one another in an effort to come to grips.

The wide encircling movement of General Calles' federal commander-in-chief, to close in on Torreon and cut off the rebel retreat northward, continued to develop steadily.

General Calles himself was within 20 miles of Durango. He hoped to capture it shortly and then to continue northward to Torreon.

Durango, however, may be a hard nut to crack as it is strong strategically and is reported guarded by 4,000 rebels.

Four other federal armies also were advancing on Torreon, three from the south.

The government has expressed fear that the insurgent army will not stand and fight, but will flee northward to meet the federal forces outside of the city.

At Nacama, on the border, another battle was imminent between 1,200 federal and 1,000 insurgents.

While the rebels have been inactive for the past few days on the west coast, General Manzo against was reported enroute to take command of the insurgent forces near Matatlan.

Many Americans are stranded in Torreon, unable to obtain traveling funds because of the closing of banks. Five high ranking rebel officers have been executed in Vera Cruz after courtmartial.

NEW VICE CAMPAIGN IS STARTED IN MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee — (P) — In an effort to control vice in Milwaukee, District Attorney George Bowman will invoke the Lacey law which provides that buildings used as immoral houses be padlocked for one year, he said Thursday.

"I realize that the law will work a hardship on innocent persons who will be compelled to move from pad-locked buildings," said Mr. Bowman.
"However this is something right-minded people ought to put up with if it will rid the city of vice."

CASE AGAINST JUDGE IS ORDERED TO COMMITTEE

Madison — (P) — The assembly Friday referred to its judiciary committee the resolution by Assemblyman
A. F. Voller, Milwaukee, calling for an investigation by the judiciary committee of practices in the court of practice in the court of Judge E. B. Belden, Racine.

The assembly refused, after a short debate, to suspend the rules so that the resolution could be considered immediately, and then voted, 43 to 30, to send it to committee.

CLAIMS SUICIDE WAS CAUSED BY ACCIDENT

Hurley — (P) — Contending that her husband, Frank Svok, committed suicide because he became mentally deranged after being injured in a mine, Mrs. Anna Svok is asking the Wisconsin Industrial commission to compel the Montreal Mining company to pay her $5,000, the compensation that is allowed the survivors of a man killed while employed.

TWO BANK CASES COME UP BEFORE GRAND JURY

Milwaukee — (P) — The case of Erwin Voelz, bank embezzler, and another bank case arising in a city north of here, are to be considered when the federal grand jury, which adjourned two weeks ago after returning 69 true bills, reconvenes.

Invite For Lindy Gets Senate O. K.

Doctors Refusing Calls to Country Are Scored — Move to Pay Tour Debts

Madison — (P) — An invitation to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh to address his two houses in joint session on the subject of aeronautics is to be extended him by the Wisconsin legislature. The senate Friday adopted a resolution which has already been approved in the assembly, asking Lindbergh to make such addresses before the two houses.

With the 1929 Wisconsin good will tour just completed, Senator J. H.
Carroll, has initiated a move to wind up the financial affairs of the previous year's tour.

In a resolution Friday Carroll asked that the joint legislative committee which was in charge of the 1928 tour be empowered to conduct an investigation of outstanding accounts owed by the state by railroad companies which handled the trip. Carroll was chairman of the tour committee, and declared he seeks an investigation because there have been unfavorable statements made regarding the way its finances were handled. The committee would have assistance of a member of the attorney general's staff.

Carroll estimates $1,000 is owed the state by the railroad companies.

RESPONSE MEDICAL BILL

Doctors who are unwilling to travel country roads to take care of patients were criticized strongly by Senator J. E. Cashman Friday morning during debate on a measure which would prohibit itinerant doctors from practicing medicine in the state. The bill was indefinitely postponed.

Senator Cashman declared he had received a letter from a member of the Door-cro board complaining that doctors declined to travel the snow-covered roads to care for the sick.

"I want to serve notice on the medical profession that unless its members show a willingness to care for the sick, I'm going to bring in a bill forcing them to quit practice," Cashman said.

The senate declined to concur in Assemblyman Eber's joint resolution calling for a legislative session split in three divisions.

Favorable action was taken by the body on the Sersverson bill allowing persons fined in criminal courts to pay their fines in installments. The bill was engrossed and made ready for vote on question of final passage.

Assemblyman Beggs' bill calling for detachment of territory from towns of Dallas and Dover in Barronco and creation of a new town to be called Sioux Creek was concurred in by the senate. The crush bill increasing the penalty for drunken auto drivers also was passed.

HUGHES IS OVERNIGHT GUEST AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington — (P) — Charles Evans Hughes, for many years an associate of President Hoover in the Harding and Coolidge cabinets and more recently an active figure in his political campaign, was an overnight guest of the executive at the White House.

Since the campaign, Mr. Hughes has come to be regarded as a close "unofficial adviser" of Hoover's administration, and it is assumed that his visit gave the president an opportunity to talk over with him several objects which have occupied a considerable amount of his attention since his inauguration.

TO DISCONTINUE SHORT STRETCH OF RAILROAD

Washington — (P) — The Interstate Commerce commission Friday granted the Chicago and Northwestern railroad permission to abandon a 6 1/2 miles of its Lindquist branch line in Oconto and Langlade cos., Wis. The stretch is the last of a line built to serve lumbering operations now completed.

Iron Mountain, Mich. — (P) — The raid Thursday of Walter Jolabek barber in the American hotel here, brought the number of persons arrested in the latest dry law here to 12. Eleven were seized Tuesday.

The arrests constitute the first action in liquor cases by Paul Iahm, youthful prosecutor who was recently elected to office. Declaring that "it is possible to dry up any account," Mr. Iahm let it be known that "this is only the first act in a campaign of law enforcement."

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS PREPARING FOR MEET

Milwaukee — (P) — Six supreme officers of the Knights of Columbus will come to Milwaukee, March 23, to confer with city and state officers of the order about the national convention which will be held here Aug.
20 to 22. Those who will come to the city include Deputy Supreme Knight John F. Martin, Green Bay.

SPANISH CABINET TO CURB FURTHER RIOTS

Madrid — (P) — Official announcement was made early Friday that the cabinet would meet later and adopt firm measures for the maintenance of order throughout the country. The announcement followed renewal of students rioting in the center of Madrid Thursday night.

BUILD "BRIDGE" TO TAKE DEER FROM ICE

Manistique, Mich. — (P) — Marooned on an ice cake in Lake Michigan, just off the Manistique shore, a young deer was rescued by conservation officers after it had spent two days on its precarious perch.

Attempts to frighten the deer into the water so it would swim ashore failed. It was necessary to bridge the gap of open water with planks before the animal would jump back to shore. A crowd watched the rescue efforts of the officers.

FAMILIES IN BADGER STATE LEAVE HOMES

Northern Streams Bring
New Problems as South Portion Recovers

Milwaukee — (P) — About 40 families evacuated their homes early Friday in boats when the overflow of the Milwaukee river caused the water to flood the first floors of houses north of the city. The rise of the water was attributed to an ice jam which it is planned to dynamite.

Residents in the flood area in the town of Milwaukee took to row-boats to do their shopping Friday.
Classes at one school in the suburbs have been virtually suspended because of the high waters.

While danger from floods in southern Wisconsin was thought past, a new problem arose Friday as streams farther north began to free themselves of ice and snow.

The Pecatonica valley in LaFayette and Green-cos is a mud basin with roads blocked and miles of Milwaukee road tracks washed out. The Sugar river flooded in a passing blow over a large area near Breadhead and washed out bridge and a strip of concrete on highway 20, shutting off traffic between Monroe and the east.

Upper rivers of the state presented a different situation than those in the south. The Mississippi climbed two feet at Prairie du Chien since Thursday morning, reaching the nine feet above low level and the ice started moving in the channels. The ice also was moving in the Wisconsin river at Brinkport where the water was four and a half feet above normal. The upper Wisconsin is still solid. The Fox and Wolf river continued to rise and many families at Berlin were using boats to get to higher ground.

FEAR ICE JAM

Possibility of an ice jam which would impede the new bascule bridge at Two Rivers was causing some apprehension Friday. The Oconto and Twin rivers were rising rapidly Friday and dynamite was being used at Shoto to protect bridges.

The Rock river at Beloit fell from six feet above normal to three and one half feet by late Thursday. The Pecatonica was four feet above normal Friday at Darlington where the high waters had caused $50,000 damage.

A retaining dam near Beaver Dam went out Thursday, the abutments of a bridge below being damaged as the timbers were carried down. No damage was reported to farm buildings in this area.

Two streets in Watertown were blocked off, one covered by six feet of water. Dynamite was being used to break ice jams on Silver creek, a tributary of the Rock river, when bridges in the city threatened to crash.

TO RECOMMEND PASSAGE OF NEW HIGHWAY BILL

Madison — (P) — There being no opposition Thursday in the joint finances committee public hearing on the Goodland bill for a full-time paid highway commission, the committee was expected to recommend the bill for passage in the senate.

Senator W. S. Goodland, Racine, said the bill had been drawn in a conference attended by the governor, speaker Charles B. Perry of the assembly, and others and that it had been amended to suit other interests in the legislature.

Large expenditures under direction of the highway commission are one reason that a full-time board should be in charge of such administration, he said. Senator Goodland said the governor at one time favored the idea of a one-man director of highways.

PRINCESS KENOKE IS NEW RULER OF MENOMINEE TRIBE

Green Bay — (P) — Reginald is not to rule the Menominee Indians. It was officially announceed here Friday morning that Alice C. Oshkosh, 14, known to her tribesfolk as Princess Keno-ke, has been made ruler of the tribe, succeeding her father, Chief Ernest Oshkosh, who died early this week. She will be its first woman head.

It was originally announced that the dead chiefdom would be succeeded by his brother, Reginald.

However, it was revealed Friday that his daughter, instead of his brother, would be advanced at the specific request of her grandfather, the late Chief Neopit Oshkosh, who ordered this on his death-bed. The official papers naming her as her father's successor are at the Indian Bureau, Washington.

ABANDON HOPE FOR YOUNG REEVES BOY

Drifts Too Deep for Searchers in Nebraska — Child Lost Tuesday

Gordon, Neb. — (P) — The snow-swept sandhill region north of here holds the fate of 6-year-old Melvin Reeves. After nearly sixty hours of relentless effort, search for the boy, who was lost in a blinding blizzard when he went to hunt for a lost mitten, was abandoned Thursday night. With abandonment of the search the last ray of hope of finding the boy alive had faded.

Hunt for the lad will be renewed when the snow melts. An army of several hundred searchers, including 200 Indians from the Pine Ridge reservation and Kyle, S. D., found themselves virtually snowbound, unable to push through the drifts, many of which are eight feet deep.

Mr. and Mrs. William Reeves, parents of the lost boy, were near collapse. Mr. Reeves had searched night and day, without food or sleep, hoping to find his boy alive. Further search would be futile, he told the possession.

The Indians joined the hunt Thursday, coming in wagons and some by horseback. Familiar with this country as a white man is they were unable to find any more clues through the huge drifts north of the Reeves ranch. A few of them proceeded their way through for about five miles, but were forced to return.
When last seen Tuesday morning, Melvin was pursuing a hoop, which he was rolling into a canyon.

COULD QUALIFY AS ENTRY IN MEANEST MAN TITLE CONTEST

Chicago — (P) — Mrs. Katie Rask in's son had been missing several years when in 1926, she advertised solving trace of him. She received an answer from the Michigan State prison at Jackson.

"I knew your son," said the latter. "We were pals, but he disappeared. It would do me good, imprisoned here, to receive letters from my old friend's mother."

Mrs. Raskin wrote. She sent gifts and money. Last year one of the letters from Jackson carried a "confession."

"I am not Sylvester Simmons," the card said. "I am your son but please don't come to see me. I cannot face you yet. I am so ashamed and you have been so good."

"The gifts became a shower. Nothing was too good for her son. Thursday she could wait no longer. She paid a surprise visit to the prison.
The convict was ushered into her presence. She looked, then turned her head.

"Take him away, please take him away," she cried.

For Sylvester Simmons was Sylvester Simmons. For three years he had haunted her, for the money and presents she sent.

"Please don't punish him," Mrs.
Raskin told the warden.

"Why did I do it?" said Sylvester Simmons. "Oh, just for a joke."

EXPECT REVENUE FROM INCOME TAX WILL BOOST SURPLUS

Hopeful That Payments Will Increase Despite Lower Tax

Washington, D. C. (AP)—Confident that a surplus will be rolled up, treasury officials are awaiting with interest the sum total of income tax payments now being made to learn the full effect the tax reduction bill enacted by the last session of congress, will have in the fiscal period ending tonight.

These payments will afford the first opportunity to ascertain what effect the reduction in the rate on corporate incomes from 13.42 to 12 per cent will have in the amount of revenue.

Because of the uncertainty of the corporation payments, treasury actuaries so far have been unable to accurately say just what amount of revenue will be derived from the new tax law.

COMPROMISE ON 12 PER CENT
A year ago reduction of the corporation rate was a disputed subject. The treasury insisted on reduction of more than one per cent would endanger the treasury surplus while Democrats contended the rate could be lowered to 11 per cent with perfect safety. A compromise on the 12 per cent rate was effected.

Secretary Mellon predicted there would be a comfortable surplus in the government's income for the fiscal year 1929. Payments, including those from corporations and individuals, so far have exceeded expectations. Receipts to date are $4,000,000 more than expected.

With one day remaining, in which income tax returns may be filed, treasury officials believe the first quarter's payment will equal, if not exceed, the $597,137,752 collected during the first quarter of 1928.

PREDICT ANOTHER CUT
Business men are viewing the returns, especially those by corporations from a standpoint that higher receipts under the lower rate may pave the way for another tax reduction.

Last year 135,000 corporations paid taxes while 350,000 others not subject to the tax made returns. Many of the latter class are expected to have incomes warranting tax payments for their 1928 business. The total income tax collections last year amounted to $2,169,417,231, while a total of 2,500,000 citizens paid such taxes.

With more than a half billion dollars in treasury certificates falling due tomorrow the treasury is issuing an additional offering of certificates totaling $475,999,500 with the receipt of the first quarter's income tax is expected to meet all government expenditures until June when the next installment of income taxes is due.

LABOR COLLEGIANS PICK DEBATE TEAM

Will Discuss Managerial Government With High School Class

The debate squad representing the labor college in the debate with the special class of Appleton Vocational school on the question "Resolved: That Appleton adopt the city managerial form of government," on Tuesday evening, March 26, Trades and Labor hall, was chosen at the weekly meeting of the college Thursday evening at the high school, Kurt A. Koletzke, Adolphus Guyer, and Karl D. Janke, make up the team.

The labor college expects to close its activities with a banquet Thursday evening, March 28. A report was given by Kurt A. Koletzke, chairman of the banquet committee. Mr. Guyer, a member of the committee, will report on further arrangements at the meeting next week.

The remainder of the meeting was spent in discussion of assignments from Roberts Rules of Order. The meeting was carried on according to parliamentary form and William J. Gendron was elected presiding officer for the evening.

After the meeting, members of the team held a special session with H. H. Helble, director of the college. Only two more meetings of the Labor college will be held before the close of the semester. The secretary was instructed to notify all absent members of the plans for the last meetings and of the banquet.

LAWRENTIANS VOTE TO SEND STUDENT TO STUDY ABROAD

By an overwhelming majority, Lawrence college students accepted the project of sending a student to Europe in a referendum vote taken at convocation Thursday morning. The final vote was approximately 5 to 1 in favor of the plan.

The financial drive to raise money for the scholarship will be carried on by direct subscription of the student body. Following this the students will elect a committee of seven students who will work with three faculty members to select the most representative Lawrence student to be sent abroad. The university to which he is sent will depend largely upon his foreign language at college.

At present it is hoped that a student exchange can be arranged, so that a European student may attend Lawrence.

OIL POLICY HELPS CURTAIL DRILLING

for national defense and against waste which might bring higher prices for transportation some day. This is being based on the thought that valuable gases are escaping to waste when oil is produced at low prices and that in later years the cost of production would be increased due to the absence of artificial gases which now aid the oil flow.

DOHERTY'S STAND

This argument before the federal oil conservation board was made originally by Henry L. Doherty who advocated that a pooling system be developed whereby the federal government would issue licenses and thus prevent indiscriminate drilling.

Mr. Doherty insisted that the United States government could exercise its authority as a conservation measure under the general provisions of the constitution and that it need not be construed as a state matter.

His view was opposed at the time by constitutional lawyers who believed the matter was not within federal jurisdiction. In recent months, however, the Doherty view has been accepted and now President Hoover introduces the federal problem of the oil industry by deliberately withholding further leases until ordered by congress. This means discussion of the issue in the senate.

At present, because western members may insist on further development of the oil lands while some of the members from states already suffering from the depression caused by the over-production of oil would uphold the Hoover policy.

Anyways, Mr. Hoover has unquestionably started a debate on conservation and for the time being at least has given the oil men the comforting thought that he believes conservation is a broad federal policy and not a local question.

MAILMEN HAVE LITTLE TROUBLE ON ROUTES

Several days of warm weather have opened enough roads in the vicinity of Appleton so that most rural mail carriers, working out of the local office, are now covering their routes with but little difficulty. In several places the carriers are forced to walk to patrons living on side roads which are not yet open. For several days the water was deep in the ditches along the road, the carriers said, but Thursday most of the surplus water had disappeared. Many farmers were troubled, during the warm spell, by water flooding the basements of their homes.

SAFETY SCHOOL GROUP DISCUSSES PROBLEMS

The woodworking section of the Appleton Safety school met at the Standard Manufacturing company, Thursday evening to work on a "young shooting" project. It was decided to conduct another meeting on March 26 to complete a new problem which was spotted this week.

SOLDIERS PREFERENCE LAW IS APPROVED

Madison—(AP)—The bill by Assemblyman Alvin Reis, Madison, calling upon the civil service commission to add a few points to the examination paper totals of all service men applying for state jobs, has been approved by the lower house and sent to the senate.

It is called a "soldiers preference law." The bill would give all World War Veterans a preference over other applicants, by virtue of the advancement in the tests over actual markings of other candidates.

FLOOD OF LAWS SWAMPS POLICE, LECTURER SAYS

Seventeen Local Officers Learning Methods of Proper Enforcement

The various phases of lawlessness and cost of enforcing laws were discussed by Professor A. G. Barry of the University of Wisconsin before a group of Appleton, Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna police officers at the Appleton vocational school Wednesday afternoon. Seventeen local officers were present. The school is sponsored by the Extension division of the university.

The course of 18 lessons is constructed in the light of criminology and modern science, and in the opening talk Professor Barry stated that if policemen in the average Wisconsin city tried to enforce all the laws and ordinances they are sworn to uphold, a new police force would take their places within a week.

"Seeking its social Utopia through legal enactment, America more than any other nation of the modern world has made its statute books, the vehicle of social experiments," he said. "Hardly ever are the unsuccessful experiments repealed. Consequently there is little or no reverence here for law as law."

"These facts make it imperative for the policeman to know where he stands as between the 'ethical public' on the one hand and the disorderly and criminal element on the other. Is it any wonder that many policemen fall into step with the 'system' as they find it and wink at hundreds of violations such as gambling and petty liquor law infractions, feeling the indifference of the general public toward such problems?"

OFFICERS MUST INTERPRET
"In a democracy such as ours the policeman cannot set himself up as a dictator. But it nevertheless is his duty to interpret the will of the better part of the public, which is after all the real public."

"But here is the main difficulty, as the 'good citizen' is usually apathetic and the evil does active, passive and determined. Hence it comes about that the ideals and objectives of the police are too often at absolutely cross purposes with the aims of the classes in the community that should be their allies—the educators, the church, fraternal organizations, women's clubs, and the like."

Other handicaps under which the police labor, according to Mr. Barry, are lack of uniform statistics of crime and arrest, "red tape," insufficient cooperation between cities, and lack of training and professional standing for law's guardians.

He outlined two ways in which the policeman, despite the peculiar difficulties facing him in American, may help in bringing about better conditions in law enforcement.

First, to get professional and social education that will teach him what he should do and how to do it; second, to use his influence and his leadership to enlist the interest and active support of good citizens.

WEILAND MAY ATTEND MEETING OF BUILDERS

A meeting of Wisconsin building officials to discuss further a proposed uniform building code for all cities in the state will be held Friday, March 22, at Milwaukee, according to a notice received Friday by John N. Weiland, building inspector, from the Industrial commission. Mr. Weiland probably will attend the meeting, which will be held at the Republican Hotel, starting at 9:30 in the morning.

"Hiding officials favor a uniform building code to facilitate their problems and those of builders," Mr. Weiland said. "Because of the great variance now existing in building codes in different cities, building contractors often encounter problems they might otherwise have avoided if the codes were uniform. It is with the hope of correcting such matters that building officials are pushing this present move."

APPROVE 17 LOANS FOR HOME BUILDING

Seventeen loans amounting to $71,500 were approved at a meeting Thursday by Appleton Building and Loan association at the offices of George Beckley, W. College-ave. Thursday evening.

BUILDING PERMITS

One building permit was issued Thursday by John N. Weiland, building inspector. It was granted to Arnold B. Hoerning for a residence at 1506 N. Clark-st. at an estimated cost of $4,000.

PROF. WEBB LECTURES ON ORGAN AT CHURCH

A lecture on the Organ and Its Music will be given by Prof. William C. Webb at 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Methodist church. Prof. Webb is organist at the church and a member of Lawrence conservatory faculty.

He will be assisted in his lecture by Dr. J. Mursell, Dr. J. Griffiths, and Prof. E. C. Moore, and Dr. J. E. Holmes will preside.

By request the Chopin "Polonaise" will be played again by Prof. Webb and Dr. Mursell, and Prof. Moore will illustrate the connection between the organ stops and the orchestral instruments of the same name. Dr. Griffiths will provide a surprise feature to the program.

FOREMANSHIP CLASSES OPENED AT 2 PLANTS

Foremanship Training classes were started at the Telulah Mill of the Fox River Paper company and the Riverside Fibre and Paper company plant Friday. The class at the Telulah mill opened at 11 o'clock in the morning and the Riverside mill class was held in the afternoon. M. W. Smith of Appleton vocational school is instructor. The classes sponsored by the vocational school were arranged by H. C. Noyes, district coordinator of the pulp and paper industry at the school.

DELINQUENT TAX LIST IS GIVEN TO POLICE

The delinquent list of personal property tax payers and of owners who have failed to pay dog licenses has been turned over to the police for collection by Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer. The police probably will start collection of these taxes next week.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

A marriage license was issued Friday by John E. Hantschel, county clerk, to Harry Walston, Nichols, and Edith Carstensen, Waupaca.

ASSESSOR'S OFFICE TO BE OPEN TONIGHT TO RECEIVE RETURNS

A last minute rush of income tax returns Friday morning literally deluged the office of Leo J. Toonen, assessor of incomes, at the courthouse Friday morning. Friday is the last day to file returns and Mr. Toonen said that his office would be open from 7 to 8 o'clock in the evening to give citizens a last opportunity to get their returns in "under the wire". All those who file returns after Friday will be forced to pay a fine of $5.

flood which hit Fond du Lac two days ago caused a warning to be issued Friday by city health officials who reported several cases of diphtheria had developed.

Residents in the flooded area were urged to use disinfectants in basements filled with water to prevent the spread of disease and take other precautions.

With the break up of ice on Lake Winnebago, the danger from the flood reaching alarming proportions is slight.

Bus lines were operating to nearly all sections of Fond du Lac, only a few streets being found impassable.

DESCRIBES CONDITIONS
Birmingham, Ala. (AP)—Conditions in flood-stricken Elba were related in a telephone interview with the Birmingham Age-Herald by Miss Allie Hughes, Office-co home demonstration agent, one of five known refugees who have escaped from flood-stricken Elba, Ala.

"Water submerging the tops of automobiles flowed through the courthouse square," Miss Hughes said.

"Hundreds of families had sought refuge in the courthouse when the muddy waters first began to lick at their homes, and at 5 p. m. hundreds of other families were marooned on the roofs of their houses or had sought safety in the more substantially built business houses."

"We are used to floods in Elba, and when this one struck we paid little attention at first."

"The water started rising early Thursday morning and by 9:30 a. m. had risen to a height to cause school authorities to dismiss their pupils."

"By 12:30 p. m. the water was well into the residential district and families were moving to higher ground. In another hour the water poured down the business streets and continued rising rapidly, soon submerging the automobiles left parked at the curb."

"Our rescue was affected by two men who passed our home in a canoe."

"The water was so swift we thought several times we would be capsized in the brief half mile we were forced to ride through the whirling currents."

"At first residents of the town drifted about in canoes in the shallow waters, somewhat inclined to take the flood as a joke."

"In an hour or two conditions changed, and what at first appeared to be an expensive lark grew to be a grim, serious situation, in which strong men battled to save lives and homes."

"At 5 o'clock when Miss Hughes was brought to safety, rescue workers announced that currents had become so swift that further attempts at rescue with the small craft available would be foolhardy."

WOMAN FALLS DOWN STAIRS; BREAKS HIP

Mrs. E. C. Williams, Waupaca, Seriously Injured at Her Home

Mrs. E. C. Williams, Oak-st., Waupaca, is in a serious condition as the result of a fall in her home at about 7 o'clock Thursday evening, in which she suffered a double fracture of her left hip bone, a deep gash over her left eye and possible other injuries.

Mrs. Williams had opened the trap door leading to the basement of the home, in order to carry some cans of fruit downstairs, when she slipped on the top step and fell the entire distance to the basement floor. Her daughter, Esther, who is a cripple confined to a wheel chair, heard the fall and called a neighbor, Mrs. John Conrad. The latter, finding that she was unable to help Mrs. Williams upstairs, summoned Mr. Conrad and notified a physician.

Mrs. Williams, who is about 60 years old, lost consciousness in the fall, and had not recovered from this condition up to about 10 o'clock Friday morning.

WOMAN GETS DIVORCE BECAUSE MATE BEAT HER

Charging her husband beat her so severely that she was forced to go to a doctor, Mrs. Susan Jens, 44, Appleton, was awarded an absolute divorce by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Friday morning from her husband, Alvin T. Jens, proprietor of the Arcade Bowling Alley and Billiard hall at 119 N. Appleton-st. Mrs. Jens charged further that her husband often was abusive, especially when he used liquor.

The divorce was not contested and Judge Berg approved a property settlement which gives Mrs. Jens a two-fifth share of property valued at between $75,000 and $80,000. In her complaint Mrs. Jens said her husband's monthly income ranged from $600 to $900. The couple was married at Menominee, Mich., Aug. 10, 1908.

WARNER BROS. DENY MERGER IN INDUSTRY

WANT DAMPER ON BILLS FLOWING IN LEGISLATIVE HALLS

More Than 700 Bills and Resolutions Now Awaiting Action

Madison—(P)—Assemblyman E. E. Husband, Balsam Lake, has presented a joint resolution to the legislature calling for cessation of the flow of bills from committees, except the joint finance committee bills for state appropriations, on March 20. There are now nearly 300 Senate bills, over 475 Assembly bills and scores of resolutions in each house. The Husband resolution, which will come up Thursday or Friday, would prevent the introduction of bills by committees after March 20 and add that the revision committees, which look to the correct wording of the bills, have them all on the floor by April 10. No member or committee could introduce a bill after that except the appropriation bills, without obtaining a two-thirds vote of the house in which he sought to bring the measure. The presentation of bills by individual members was topped several weeks ago, but many introduced by title at that time are coming in. Assemblyman C. A. Beggs Thursday introduced a bill in the legislature changing the dates of the fall primary elections from the first Tuesday to the third Tuesday in the same month and changing the form of the ballot for county officers. Under the Beggs bill all candidates for county offices would be on one ballot instead of on separate, party ballots and party affiliations of the candidates would be printed after the candidates' names. A similar bill is before the senate.

FIVE PUPILS MAKE SCHOOL HONOR ROLL

One tenth grader and four pupils of the ninth grade at St. Joseph high school are listed on the honor roll for the past six weeks. Perfect attendance with an average of 93 in all studies and deportment are the requirements necessary to become an honor pupil. Miss Helen Witto was the only member of the tenth grade to be honored, while the ninth grade had four honor pupils: Harvey Wolgram, Lucille and Fred DeGroot, and Carl Wettengel. The honor roll for the grade school will be checked at the end of this week. BOY SCOUT EXECUTIVE TALKS AT ROTARY MEET At G. Powerful, Penetrating Antiseptic Oil Heals Eczema and Other Skin Diseases

Must Give Results in 7 Days or Money Back, Says Schlitz Bros. 3 Stores, Appleton and Menasha, and Voigt's Drug Store

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well. You've probably been like a lot of other people convinced that the only thing to use was an ointment or salve (some of them are very good) but in the big majority of cases these sticky salves simply clog the pores and the condition primarily remains the same. Go to Schlitz Bros. 3 Stores, Appleton and Menasha, Voigt's Drug Store or any other good druggist today and get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil. The very first application will give you relief and a few short treatments will thoroughly convince you that by sticking faithfully to it for a short while your skin troubles will be a thing of the past. Don't expect a single bottle to do it all at once but one bottle we know will show you beyond all question that you have at last discovered the way to restore your skin to perfect health. Remember that Moone's Emerald Oil is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue and that it must give complete satisfaction or your money cheerfully refunded.

DRYS HYPOCRITES, SENATOR CHARGES

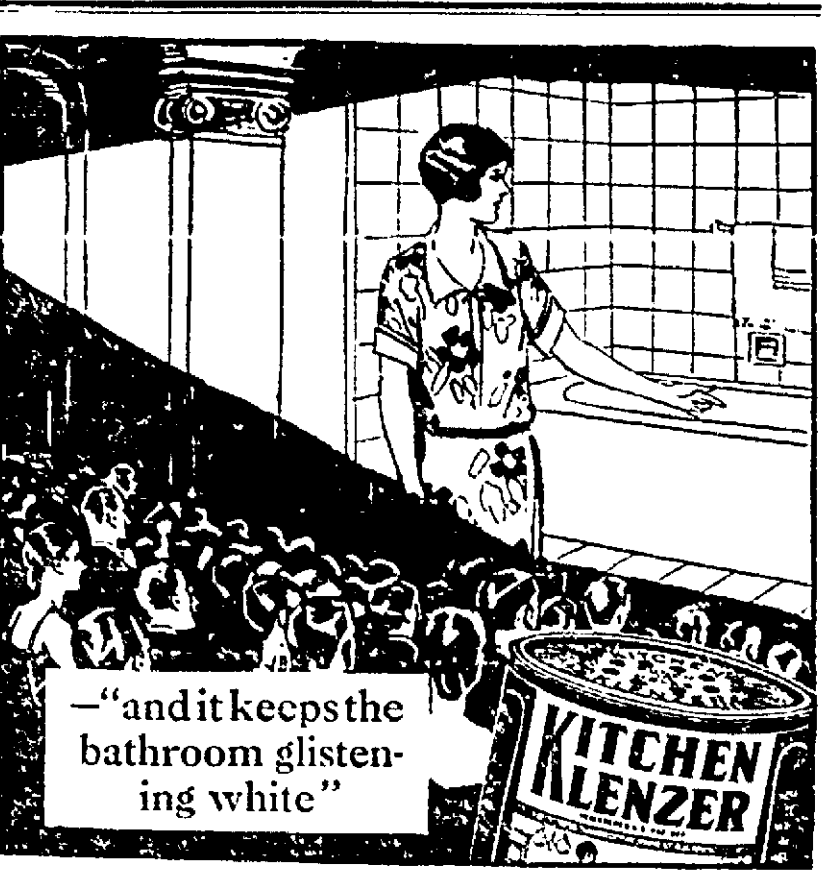

Make Poor Patriots, in Opinion of Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee

Madison—(P)—Organized dry patriots are hypocrites, in the opinion of Sen. Thomas M. Duncan, Milwaukee, author of the liquor referendum which will be submitted to the electorate of Wisconsin, April 2. While prohibitionists have designated April 2 as "Patriot's Day" and have urged voters to go to the polls and keep Wisconsin Dry, asserts Sen. T. Duncan, they have a long way to go before they can claim the enforcement of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the constitution. The fourteenth amendment, if enforced, would cut in half the congressional representation from five dry southern states. It provides that when the right to vote is denied citizens of voting age in any state, the congressional representation from such state shall be reduced in proportion. Wets point out that negroes in Alabama, Georgia, South Carolina, Mississippi, and Louisiana—which are dry states—are denied the right to vote but that the congressional representation from these states is figured on the hypothesis that the negroes are allowed to vote. Sen. Duncan explained. The fifteenth amendment provides the right of an adult citizen to vote shall not be denied or abridged. Sen. Duncan also points out that the dries were silent about patriot-

Daily Lenten Thought

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D. Love is the deepest thing in human life and the highest thing in Christian fellowship. But love is vague and formless until it finds expression; and its most effective expressions are in sacrifice and service. Sacrifice and service, through the eyes of love, enlarge and intensify our vision so that we are able to see things in our fellow men that we had never seen before. There is a very effective illustration of this in the experience of that young American university man who enlisted as a private in a London regiment in the early stages of the late war. It was a rocky regiment, recruited from what many would have regarded as the riffraff, or at least as the very common element of a great city. The cultured university man felt at first a feeling of deep repulsion when the late Sen. LaFollette exposed the conspiracy of the nation's executives to sell out and give away the nation's oil reserves.

for his new environment and companions. His first thought was, "How can I live without them?" He discovered those deeper bonds that unite men in spite of all their outward differences, when they are free to face with great tasks and responsibilities. When a little later, his father died and he was called home to America and he was told that it was only in that atmosphere of love that we can understand the meaning of Divine love.

COUNCIL MAY BUY NEW CAR
FOR POLICE

Proposed Purchase Is Referred to Committee for Recommendation

Menasha—Purchase of a new police car was discussed at the adjourned council meeting Thursday evening and was finally referred to the fire and police commission and the police committee to bring in its recommendations. Preceding the discussion the rules were suspended while "Cub" Buck of the Valley Inn Buick company presented a proposition for the purchase of a used Lincoln car for the police. Six hundred dollars would be involved in the deal.

Called upon by Mayor Held, Chief of Police James Lyman called attention to the need of a heavy car claiming the present one was too small to answer the requirements of emergency cases like the automobile accident two weeks ago on highway 41 in which several persons were injured and had to be taken to the hospital. Other instances were related by aldermen that the present car was too small for the purposes for which it was intended. The object in referring it to the fire and police commission was to have it reach the council through proper channels.

Drinking fountains for horses are doomed in Menasha. There are only two left and these will disappear as the result of a motion by Alderman John Kolanski which received the support of practically the entire council. Before the advent of automobiles there were nearly a dozen fountains scattered about the city.

SEWER PROBLEM SETTLED

The sewer problem of Charles Dorn, Paris-st. resident, came up again Thursday night and was finally settled when the city guaranteed to reimburse Mr. Dorn if the city engineer's plan of overcoming the difficulty failed to work. Mr. Dorn plans to make the changes at his own expense, but wanted protection in the event the city engineer's plan was not a success. The trouble concerned a sewer in the basement of his residence which he claimed was not functioning properly.

A permit was granted to the Wisconsin Telephone company to lay a submarine cable across the government canal near the site of the new bridge and the city agreed to early changes and repairs to its lines in that part of the city. The finance committee announced that a settlement with Mrs. Sarah King who was injured by a fall on a slippery sidewalk at the high school building had been reached. Tax rebates amounting in the aggregate to several hundred dollars were granted. Amounts paid by several taxpayers under protest were referred to the city attorney and finance committee. Final report of the street committee relating to the paving of Racine and Pine-sts. were submitted and approved and the necessary resolutions accompanying them were adopted. One of the resolutions called for dividing the expense into five annual installments. Petitions for sidewalks on certain streets were referred to the street committee and engineer to bring in reports. The water and light committee presented an optional schedule of rates for electricity for cooking, heating and refrigeration which was adopted.

NEED GYMNASIUM LIGHT

Mayor Held said his attention was called to the need of a light at or near the entrance of Dutton's Mortuary gymnasium on coming out after an entertainment a few nights ago and urged that one be placed there before someone is injured. It was decided to install a temporary light until a permanent one can be selected. Upon motion of Alderman Meier the committee on water and light was instructed to find out what is necessary for the lighting of the clock in St. Mary's steeple and if permission could be secured for its installation. Alderman Kolanski called attention to the need of a catchbasin on Tayco-st. near the Lawson sidetrack. The matter was referred to the street committee and city engineer.

SHERRY BUILDING
WON'T BE REBUILT, COMMITTEE VOTESWork Out Plan for Taking Up Rails of Abandoned Car Line

Neenah—The Sherry building on N. Church-st. which was damaged by fire two weeks ago, is too badly damaged to rebuild and will have to be torn down. This was the decision of the board of public works at a meeting held Thursday evening at the city hall. The building is in the fire limits which will not permit remodeling or repairing, with other than fire proof material. The board also arranged with officials of the Wisconsin-Michigan Power and Light company to go over the street car rails on N. Commercial-st. to devise ways of removing them and putting the street back in first class shape.

Arrangements were made with the Wisconsin Power and Light company of Oshkosh, to cover its abandoned track on E. Wisconsin-ave. and from Walnut-st. to Riverside park with some car composition instead of removing the tracks. The board also recommended that that block of Canal-st. between Church-st. and N. Commercial-st. be put in shape for paving with the 1927 paving program, the work to start as soon as weather conditions will permit.

Recommendation will be made to the council that new sanitary sewer system be installed in the Columbia block, to cover its outlet in the lower lake. The present sanitary sewer on that street is to be used as a storm sewer. Advanced preparations for the paving of Oak and Elm-sts were advocated by installing storm sewers between Columbia and Washington-aves. A sanitary sewer on Elm-st. between Division and Park-st. was recommended.

BERGER BELIEVES SOCIALISTS WILL ENJOY COME-BACK

Defeated Congressman Says He Could Win if He Ran Again in 1930

BY ROONEY DUTCHER
Washington—There were many who asked, after the election, what would happen to the Democratic party, but only a few to weep over the plight of the Socialists. Yet the poor Socialists not only polled the lowest presidential vote they had cast for 28 years but also lost their sole representative in Congress.

Victor Berger of Milwaukee, the defeated Socialist congressman who is now about to retire, was asked about the future of his party, if any, and proved equal to the occasion.

In the first place, said Mr. Berger, he can be re-elected to his seat in 1930 if he desires. He was beaten only by about 300 votes after 23,000 voters, mostly Republicans, had split their ballots to mark crosses for Berger—a record for ticket-splitting which Mr. Berger challenges any other congressman to match. If so many persons hadn't voted the straight Republican ticket blindly for fear of the Pope, if so many others hadn't voted straight Democratic on account of the Ku Klux Klan and if so many workers had not voted for Smith in the hope of more and better beer, says Mr. Berger, he would easily have been elected.

Concerning national politics, Mr. Berger says there is only one party except for the Socialists and that the Democratic party has been non-existent for many years. Another party must develop as a strong opposition group which in time will be elected to run the nation, says he, whether it be the Socialist party or some other progressive movement.

The Socialist, claims Mr. Berger, are possessed of a marvelous resiliency. They bounced up to 5,000,000 votes when they adopted Senator La Follette in 1924 and last November they bounced back to a mere 260,000, despite the excellence of their candidate, Dr. Norman Thomas.

Mr. Berger sees no reason why they shouldn't bounce back to 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 in 1932. In fact, Mr. Berger sees several reasons why they should. And by 1936 there ought to be 10,000,000 Socialist votes. Mr. Berger, now 63 years old, only hopes that he will live to see 50 or 60 Socialist members of Congress.

"There is bound," he says, "to be a very strong progressive or Socialist party. The only other possibilities are a dictatorship of the Mussolini type and anarchy; I want neither of those. Big business will have full sway for the next four and possibly eight years. Don't forget that, after all, Calvin Coolidge had the point of view of the New England manufacturer. Herbert Hoover was part of British big business and for the last few years has been part and parcel of big business here.

"I am convinced, after 50 years of public life, that this big business crowd will create its own opposition party. The Democratic party is absolutely beyond hope. There is no such thing. At best it is the Republican party of the South. Factories in New England and Pennsylvania have gone down to Alabama, North Carolina and Georgia, so now our Democratic friends want tariff protection.

"The tariff used to be the only line of demarcation between parties; now that's gone. If it were not for the negro the south would now be more Republican than the north. The Republicans will soon have the whole south because their policies fit southern business.

"The Republican party is frankly the party of Mellon and Vane and our prosperity under it is so great that Secretary of Labor Davis says 86 per cent of us are poor. The 86 per cent will not accept that kind of prosperity forever. Ten per cent of us, or about 12,000,000, earn less than $700 a year, which is certainly on the line of starvation.

"The outcome here will be as in every other country. The same causes will produce the same results that they have in England, Germany and France. Our people are as intelligent as theirs and although our education isn't as good it is getting better. We are also producing to a remarkable degree a white collar proletariat and our universities are producing more and better rebels as students become enlightened.

"My optimism may seem exaggerated to you, but if there are no signs of a healthier political situation today it is because our workers have about 27 per cent more buying power than before the war and thus can buy radio sets, automobiles and even clothes on the installment plan.

Socialists, of course, thrive on business depressions when they are out of power. Berger expects a minor slump, producing considerable unemployment, next year or possibly this year. But a real major slump, or industrial panic, he at Pasadena, Occidental college, Southwestern university at Los Angeles, University of Washington at Seattle, University of Montana, Ballings Polytechnic Institute, and the University of North Dakota.

"When that comes," he says, "almost anything might happen politically."

The questions to be debated are, "Resolved, that a substitute be adopted for trial by jury," and "Resolved that hydro-electric power sources of the United States be in the hands of the people."

The team is composed of Arthur Mueller, Waits, William Morton, Marinette, and Robert Beggs, Pensacola, Florida.

COMPLETE PLANS FOR NEW MAUSTON SCHOOL

Plans and specifications for the new St. Patrick parochial school at Mauston have been completed by Smith and Brandt, local architects. Construction work will be started immediately. The structure is to be two stories high, according to G. L. Smith of the company.

HERE'S GROUCH CURE
SAYS "BORN GROUCH"

Orlando, Florida.—One man, at least, admits that he is a grouch. He not only does that, but adds that his father and his Mayflower ancestor were also grouches. And, while he is still inclined to think that he remains a grouch, Cecil Eastman, 235 East Robinson Avenue, has found that a lot of sunshine and happiness has been brought into his life by a simple change of diet that Mrs. Eastman induced him to make. How this diet change affected his grouchiness, Mr. Eastman records below:

"I am a grouch. My father was a grouch. The original old boy who crowded over on the Mayflower was a grouch, and reared in the New England woods nine grouchy sons named from Adonijah to Zachariah. I have been loaded with crepe and vinegar. On my honeymoon, Susanah, my wife, diagnosed my case. 'Quit using caffeine,' she said, 'and knit up your ravelled nerves.' I did—for a week. I grew mauldlinly sorry for myself and the experiment nearly wrecked our romance. So Sue weakened and began serving me my caffeine. This continued for eighteen years while I remained a grouch but showed enough human streaks to get along with her.

—six more than a month ago. I find that I can whistle and can get a kick out of stirring up a smile here and there.

"I started by proclaiming myself a grouch and I still stick to it. But, if you don't believe that I have thrown off some of the crepe and vinegar and taken on some honey and molasses by using Postum, you just ask Susanah."

How Grouches Start

Ravelled nerves and lack of sleep can make a grouch of the most cheerful and optimistic man living. You simply can't smile and be happy when you've risen from a sleepless bed, tired in every nerve. But the really sad part of it is that many men fail to trace their grouchiness to its source—often the harmful stimulant they take with their meals. They fail to realize that caffeine, a known nerve irritant, by disturbing sleep and burning up reserve energy, has turned many a man into a "bundle of nerves."

Try this test and see how it works in your case! Eliminate caffeine from your diet for three days—drink Postum with your meals instead. Then decide if you ever want to go back to caffeine!

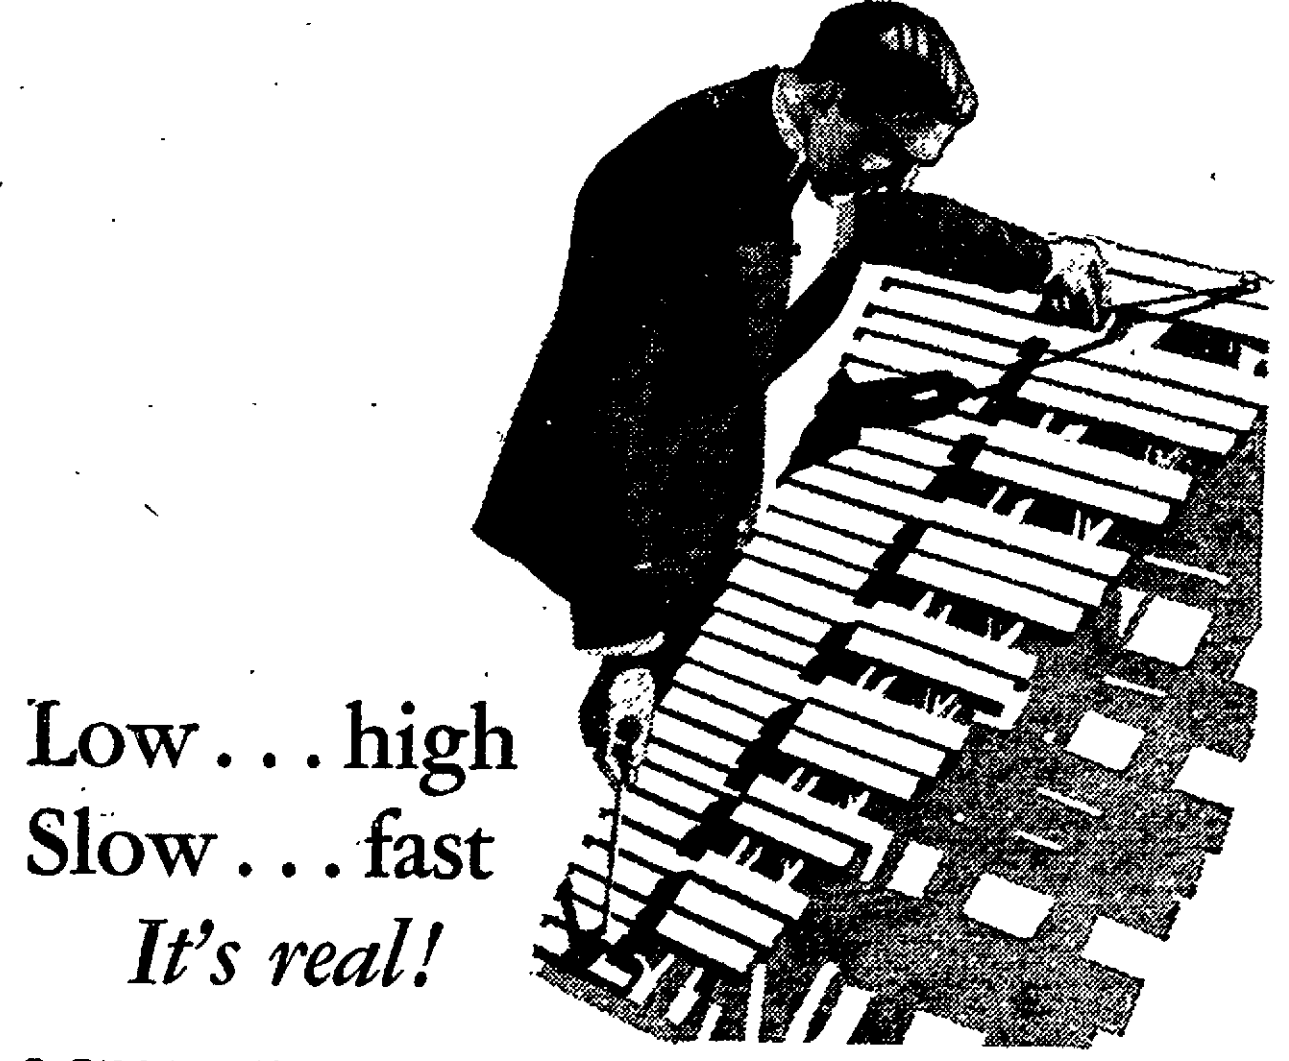

Postum contains no drug of any kind. It is made of roasted whole wheat and bran. There's nothing in it to get on your nerves, to disturb sleep or digestion. It's a drink you can enjoy, too! A drink with a rich, full-bodied flavor millions prefer. Your grocer has Postum in two forms—Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup, and Postum Cereal, the kind you boil. Both cost less than other mealtime drinks—only one-half cent a cup. Order today—start your 30-day test!

Low... high Slow... fast
It's real!

MAYBE you like your music all fire and fury. Maybe you prefer it soft, dreamy, sentimental—like the "heart songs" that never grow old.

Or steamy dance music with the rhythm of the jungle.

Whatever you like, it's all true as life when your radio is the Atwater Kent Electro-Dynamic. The music that's broadcast is the music you hear. When the xylophone player sweeps his flashing hammers up and down the scale—it's real! Every instrument is real. No note is too high for this set, no note too low. No overtones too subtle, no orchestra too big. No booming—no artificiality—just true!

The voice of the singer or the announcer is his own voice—what you would hear if you were in his presence.

Hearing is believing. The opportunity is yours at any Atwater Kent dealer's. There is no better radio at any price. Prove it!

HOOVER AND THE PRESS

Valc the White House spokesman! President Hoover intends to drop the veil of anonymity which has covered, more or less thinly, the identity of previous occupants of the presidential chair in relations with the press and to permit, indeed encourage, quotation of the president by newspapermen on occasions and subjects on which this is permissible. On matters on which this is not advisable he will try so far as possible to give the correspondents attending the press conferences indications of the presidential attitude on current questions to guide them in writing their dispatches.
This final abandonment of the ridiculous "White House spokesman" idea was to have been expected of a man of the direct short-cut mind and practical common sense of Mr. Hoover. The idea of the spokesman or voice of authoritative information had its merits in the beginning when presidential attitude could be learned and used without the presidential tag being attached. But when every reader knew at sight who the "spokesman" was, just what "information obtained at the White House conference" or "in White House circles" meant, all reason for the fiction disappeared and the "White House spokesman" illusion became a very bungling piece of stage legerdemain, deceiving no one.
Now Mr. Hoover has himself proposed a conference with a representative committee of White House correspondents to study ways of amplifying his relations with the press and "clear up the twilight zone as far as we can between authoritative and quotable material on the one hand and such material as I am able to give from time to time for purely background purposes on the other." He may even, it is intimated, use the semi-weekly press conferences to communicate his views authoritatively to the country from time to time on subjects not calling for a presidential message.

FOOL-PROOF AIRCRAFT

Probably it is going altogether too far to predict that the flying machine may eventually be made fool-proof—constructed so that it will be almost mechanically impossible for a pilot to come to grief.
Yet there are times when one wonders.
At the Newark (N. J.) airport the other day an electric device was set up beside the flying field. Far in the distance an airplane approached. As the first sounds of its humming motor reached the field, the electric apparatus promptly turned on all the flood lights so that the flyer could see to land.
That is the sort of thing that makes one wonder. Already there is a device that tells a pilot, without need of map or lights, whether he is on his course. A wing slot to eliminate tail spins is now being tried out. Another invention will show the pilot at all times—in darkness, fog or snow storms—exactly how far his plane is above the ground.
Put together a few more inventions like those and you'll come mighty close to making flying fool-proof in sober fact.

MR. EINSTEIN, SUCH WORDS!

The full translation of Einstein's famous new theory has now appeared on this side of the Atlantic—but unless you're a specialist in mathematics, don't rush to the nearest book store to buy a copy. You'd be disappointed.
Here is a brief excerpt from the new theory:
"The v-components of the s-th leg of the n-leg will accordingly be labeled as subscript s raised to the power v, while the appertaining fixed lower determinants will be labeled as super-script s h subscript v.
"The local n-legs are all placed 'parallel' and equal vectors are such as have—with reference to their local n-leg—equal co-ordinates."

That's a sample. Unless you can assimilate things like that, don't bother to buy the book.

MODERN CHILD PSYCHOLOGY

There is more relation than appears on the surface between the new psychology of raising children and the old. "Obedience is one of the major vices," declares a professor of educational psychology to a gathering of parents and teachers. To the prompt and practical question of what to do when a small child, having been told to take off his shoes, merely sits on the floor and refuses to do so, the professor replies: "A child should always be shown the relation between cause and effect. He should be shown that by doing it he will achieve some desirable end, or that through not doing it something undesirable will occur. It may even be necessary to inflict slight physical punishment to make him see this."
At which point, many parents in the group must have sighed with relief. If educational psychology permits properly administered spanking, there is still hope. Yet there are spankings and spankings. The old-fashioned variety often was inflicted with no explanation at all, with considerably more emphasis on parental authority than on child guidance. The difference between the old technique and the new lies in treating the child as an unthinking little creature that must be made to obey outright, "because mother says so," or as an intelligent human, being amenable to reason and intelligent direction.

CRIMINALS AT THE WHEEL

Offhand, one would say that the truly dangerous law-breaker is the man who commits some major crime—murder, robbery, burglary or the like—rather than the citizen who violates the traffic laws.
But there are times when the traffic law violator is a menace of the first water.
In Kansas City recently a drunken man drove his car down a street at 40 miles an hour, ignored police signals to stop, and finally crashed into a group of school children who were crossing the street. By a miracle, no one was killed; although three of the youngsters were painfully hurt.
This driver never had committed any crime. He had the best intentions in the world. Yet, at that particular time, he was the most dangerous man in Kansas City. A year in the penitentiary would be a very moderate penalty for him to pay.

TAFT IS ESTEEMED

It is to be hoped that the rumors that Chief Justice William Howard Taft will retire in the near future are incorrect.
The chief justice has revealed a good deal of ability and a vast fund of level-headedness and devotion to duty during his time on the bench. Judges of his caliber are not too easily found.
It is true that he has never been numbered among the court's "liberals" with Brandeis and Holmes. But few liberals, for all that, would be pleased if he were to step down. The country needs him where he is, and his retirement would be met with almost universal regret.

COOLIDGE WRITES WELL

Calvin Coolidge, now listed as a magazine writer instead of a president, displays, in his first article for the magazine, an ability to use simple, vivid language in a way that many more experienced writers might envy.
Telling of the death of his son Calvin, the former president writes:
"When he went the power and the glory of the presidency went with him."
Whole pages of skillful writing could not have told us as much as that brief sentence. It presents the whole picture of heartache, loss and desolation.
Aspiring writers might do well to study the unadorned, powerful style of Calvin Coolidge, magazine writer.

Commissioners of Clay county, Kansas, have ruled that no person owning a motor car or dog shall receive help from the county. A dog, of course, is not a necessity.
Mr. Coolidge says he's going to write at Northampton. Living in a double house in housecleaning, screens, back-yard gardening time, the man certainly must be admired for pluck.
Reports from Chicago say the slayers of seven gangsters soon will be in the toils of the law. Wonder if the gangsters will change their minds about crime after thirty days in jail.
Charlie Curtis says he is going to let the Senate go along as it pleases. Mr. Curtis has been a senator himself and knows how that is.
Fingertail tints to harmonize with the costume are to be the vogue this spring. Guess father will have to buy another black suit.

Today's Anniversary

CAESAR'S DEATH

Today is the anniversary of one of the most famous events of ancient history—the assassination of Julius Caesar in the Roman Senate.
Historians say that Caesar had a premonition of disaster on the morning of March 15, 44 B. C. and did not intend to go to the Senate. The conspirators, however, sent Brutus, Caesar's closest friend to urge him. Caesar shook off his depression, after being reassured by Brutus, and departed from the house. In the hall, his statue fell from its pedestal and shattered.
Outside the door, an acquaintance handed him a scroll. On it was written a list of all the conspirators. Caesar thought it was a petition, and placed it with his other papers.
Once inside the Senate chamber, Caesar was the victim of his good fellowship. Senators took advantage of his affability to gather around him to talk and jest. Then, daggers were drawn from under Senatorial togas.
There was one which Caesar, dying, is said to have resented particularly—it was wielded by Brutus, his friend.

PERENNIAL HAY FEVER

When a patient comes complaining of hay fever out of season we have every right to suspect something. There are altogether too many goofs hanging about panning the doctors all winter because no one can cure his winter hay fever. When I enter the senate I'm going to introduce a bill making it a misdemeanor for any health resort to record as a cure any case of alleged hay fever just because the sufferer fancies himself while sojourning in the resort. That doesn't necessarily signify that the guest had hay fever.

Dr. Grafton T. Brown reports case that illustrates these observations. A man aged 39 consulted the physician in September for relief from hay fever, which he had suffered for nine months. The trouble had started in January, with a running nose, pronounced irritation of the eyes and nose, and a feeling of fullness in the head. These symptoms grew worse and worse until the poor fellow was in constant misery, with a clear watery drip from both nostrils. I certainly sympathize with such a sufferer—I know he has no pain at all, yet I know he yearns for more adequate cuss words. Just as you get ready to do a piece of particularly delicate or fine work—drip, drip and all damnation—and leave home without a handkerchief is not a misfortune at all, but a dire tragedy.

As with most alleged "colds," the patient felt better while outdoors. I can understand that, too. Outdoors sometimes a fellow can let her drip, if he is traveling with the wind. Treatment by family physician and a nose and throat man gave no relief. Then he went to another city and took some sort of light treatment which help him considerably, he thought, the only temporarily. A day or so after his return home, drip, drip again. He spent the month of July at a summer resort at the seashore. He enjoyed complete freedom from the trouble while he was there.

The patient had never had any other allergy, such as asthma, hives, eczema, migraine, and there was no family history of such conditions. He had never noticed any trouble from any kind of food, or from contact with animals, plant and the like.

The doctor made 97 skin scratch tests with food proteins, animal emanation, etc., and the patient reacted to only one, parrot feathers. Yes, Watson, the patient has been keeping a pet parrot for the last two years. He was persuaded to part with Polly, and two days later he was free from all symptoms and never had any return of the trouble. It is fairly evident that the temporary relief the patient ascribed to the light treatments he had taken in another city, and the relief he experienced while staying at the seashore, were due to the fact that he left pretty Polly at home.

I never had much love for parrots, not since a neighbor's greeted me at every appearance with loud cries of "Quack, quack," yet I hope no reader will assume from this narrative that you can always cure hay fever by killing the parrot, cat, dog or canary. Of course the patient never had hay fever at all. He had just a peculiarly sensitization to parrot feather protein.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Health Authorities Not in Sympathy
There must be a great many mothers who feel as I do about the prevention of the cri. I wish the time would come when everybody knows about the way cri is spread in cough, sneeze and conversational spray, so that I might benefit while I am raising my children. We might form a club for the purpose of controlling cri by educating the public.

(Mrs. H. G. W.)

Answer—I fear the present health authorities might not approve of hardly be overestimated. Clashes are fatal to the hostess.

Due notice must be given a secretary. When a dinner is to be seated she is notified several days ahead at the very least.

We were talking to a secretary the other day who had received a call from a woman just awakened to the fact that she was in need of expert assistance. She wanted the secretary immediately, and seemed unable to understand when she was told that the secretary's morning hours were all taken.

TOO LATE
"What has happened," the secretary said, "is that this woman came to Washington last November. She realized that she would not have much entertaining to do until now, and therefore didn't engage a secretary. She can't get it into her head why we are not available. 'I wonder,' she concluded, a bit ruefully, 'how she thinks I have been making my living up until now!'"

The history of Washington's social secretaries dates back to the Cleveland administration, when Mrs. Whitney had the first one known here. Mrs. Roosevelt made it a profession when her own social secretary was put on the government payroll.

Today, the social secretary to the wife of the President stands at the head of her profession. She has the status of an official employee of the government.
The others make their own standing according to their ability and judgment. To a greater degree than most occupations, it depends for its scope upon the individuals who are engaged in it.

Adventures In The Library

By Arnold Mulder

IS THE WAR NOVEL COMING BACK?

The recent spectacular success of Arnold Zweig's remarkable novel, "The Case of Sergeant Grischka," suggests the idea that at last, after ten years of hostility to the war novel, that type of fiction has a chance to stage a come-back.
Even today, in spite of "The Case of Sergeant Grischka" and a few other successes in this field, the publishers are not too hospitable to the war novel. Try to induce them to publish a war novel and they will almost invariably become cautious immediately. After the manner of publishers, they will not say frankly and openly "No, we're not in the market for that kind of thing." The chances are they will answer you something like this, "No, we have no prejudice against war novels; we have no prejudice against any type of fiction. If it is good we want it. If a war novel comes to us that compels publication because of its merit we are in the market for it."

That lets them out when such a book as "Grischka" is cited. That is so strong a piece of work that it just naturally "compels publication." The average war novel could easily be shown to be feeble in comparison and hence its rejection is plausible.

I don't know the history of "The Case of Sergeant Grischka," aside from the fact that the author obtained his idea from an actual happening as far back as 1917. As long ago as 1919 he developed it into a play. Since then he has been tinkering away at it and finally in 1927 the novel appeared in Germany. It was not until a year later that it won publication in English.

It is reasonable to suppose that during the years following the war Herz Zweig tried to get his novel published. Perhaps not in precisely the form in which it finally appeared, but the chances are that he submitted his book to the publishers. And the chances are also that they rejected it. The German people were no more eager to read war fiction than were the Americans or the French or the English. If this novel was rejected before it was finally published, as I feel sure it was, the rejection was not on the score of merit but on the score of lack of a market.

During the war hundred of novels were published that had the great

AUSTRIAN DIGGERS FIND GOLD BURIED LONG AGO

Vienna—(AP)—Gold believed buried sixteen centuries ago by Roman legionaries has been found in a field at Hattenbach, near Vienna, during boring tests for water.
At a depth of 24 feet the diggers found rich deposits of gold dust mixed with clay and earth, several ounces of pure metal being obtained from every few handfuls of earth.
Mining experts believe Roman legionaries originally took the gold from a nearby river and hid it in its present location for safekeeping during an attack from a migratory tribe. It is assumed the Romans intended to send their treasure to Rome to be minted, but probably suffered defeat and were forced to abandon their wealth.

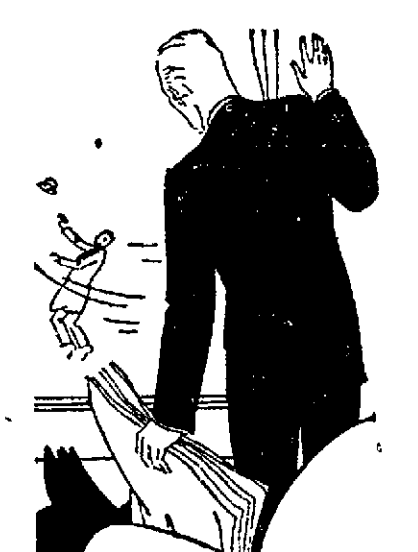

SHARK PRODUCTS TO BE SAVED

Valuable products from sharks are to be reclaimed in a factory which is to be erected at Twofold Bay, Australia. It is estimated that nearly $1,000 will be reclaimed in oils, leather and other substances produced from the sharks and other edible fish, many tons of which are caught in that vicinity during the whaling season.

conflict for their theme. Practically anything about the war commanded a ready sale, no matter how poorly done. And most of these books were the real atrocities of the war. Almost every last one of them is forgotten now—with so few exceptions that they can be counted on one's fingers. Even "The Three Horsemen of the Apocalypse" is now seen to be rather poor stuff, and a much better book, Henri Barbusse's "Under Fire," has also lost much of its glamour. As for Wells' "Mr. Britling Sees It Through" and a number of other books like it, the kindest thing is to forget them. And those were the outstanding novels of the war. The ordinary mine run of works of fiction was so poor that it makes one marvel now how it was possible that they could achieve any circulation.

In 1919 there was a sudden sharp reaction against the war novel and it has persisted until today. It is true, there was a short period when muckraking the war gained some popularity. Such books as "Through the Wheat," in which young writers who had seen the war at first hand sold tales out of school won the attention of the public. In this same class, in the field of the drama, were such works as "What Price Glory?" and "The Big Parade."

But it cannot be said that that kind of thing ever really attracted the attention of the millions and even at that the vogue of that kind of book was rather short-lived.
Ten years have passed and now it looks as if a new period is setting in for the war novel—not personal narrative of the war, nor muckraking the war, but an investigation of the elemental forces back of the war. The public seems ready for that kind of book.

MEN'S WEAR

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

by CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

Radio has played an important role in the rescue of 57 men in the disaster of the naturally considered wireless one of a sailor's greatest assets. He foresees regular ocean flying boats largely because of the reliability of radio direction finders and tells how the modern traveler is kept advised of current events through the air.

BY CAPT. GEORGE FRIED (Copyright, 1929, Associated Press) CHAPTER XVII

Having had two experiences in rescuing 57 men from foundering ships in mid-Atlantic during severe storms and under the radio day after day while at sea for the navigation of my ship and communicating with the outside world, I naturally would consider wireless one of the sailor's greatest assets. It is the same medium that provides entertainment for you in your home almost any hour of the day, that is employed to safeguard the lives of millions at sea at all times during storms and fog.

Radio as a science is still in its infancy, but considering how it has been developed it is beyond human comprehension what we can expect. Without the aid of the radio compass it would have been impossible for me to locate either the British freighter Antiope or the Italian freighter Florida. I do not believe it is very far off when radio beacons will be established at various points so that a vessel in any kind of weather will be able to get her exact position, thereby preventing the possibility of a collision in a fog with another ship.

Several radio beacons are already in operation along the coast of the United States and I think that foreign governments will erect stations at other points. Greenland should have a radio beacon as well as the Azores, with additional ones along the Atlantic coast in this country as well as along the European coast. With every ship in the Atlantic equipped with wireless to take bearings, navigators will virtually do away with determining their locations through observation from celestial bodies. It is only a matter of time before every ship will also be equipped with short range radio beacons as an additional precaution against colliding with each other in unfavorable weather.

At the present time stations send out radio beams along the American coast day and night. Vessels with radio compasses can pick up these stations and accurately obtain their fixed position by plotting on a chart the direction of the beams. The position of the vessel on the chart is at the intersection of two or more of those lines.

When I went to the assistance of the Antiope, the master gave me his position at the time he sent the SOS. As I proceeded to that spot, I found that he had drifted. The radio compass on the President Roosevelt indicated that he was 50 miles away from the given position, so I changed my course and found him. The Florida was also off her position, being 150 miles away.

Rarely ever do I make a voyage that I do not use the radio compass in the safe and practical navigation of the ship. When trans-Atlantic liners run on a regular schedule with the promptness of railroad trains the radio compass is one of the most indispensable instruments. I firmly believe that the maritime law should compel every ship not only carry a radio compass but to have three operators aboard ship while at sea so that a man is at the key day and night on a regular eight hour watch.

Several airplanes have already successfully negotiated the Atlantic. Aviation is also making rapid strides and some day it will not be uncommon to have a regular trans-Atlantic air service. These planes, carrying radio equipment, will find these radio beacons established for ships of great value in their navigation. But a good deal of study must yet be given to upper air currents before trans-Atlantic aviation will reach a degree of safety.

I think that airplanes will prove more practical in use across the ocean than dirigibles, because the former are faster and when sufficiently developed, will probably suffer less in a storm than a zeppelin. Storms will always be a hazard, just as they are now. Nature's elements have wrought havoc with the staunchest of ships, and probably always will, so that only planes of sturdy construction will be in use.

There are many other factors to be considered, however, and the day of a regular trans-Atlantic plane service, even as a supplementary steamship service, is still some distance away, in my opinion.

A steamship at sea is a small world in itself. In the old days vessels crossed the ocean and the officers, crew and passengers never had a word from the outside world. It was only when they reached a port that they knew what was in the news. Today, radio brings crew and passengers into communication with their relatives and friends during any part of the voyage in any part of the world. News despatches are received every night. On the larger passenger liners these news items are printed in the daily paper, which is at the breakfast table. Stock quotations of the chief issues dealt in on the New York Stock Exchange also are quoted. On some voyages we carry bankers, brokers and traders. They can ask for a quotation on a stock and in a few minutes the answer is received and within another few minutes, if they feel so inclined, an order to buy or sell can be put through.

Afraid He'd Have To Stop Working

Says He Feels Better Than He Has Since He Came Here From Switzerland When A Boy.

"For six months I was in such a rundown condition I thought I'd have to quit work. With the first bottle of Sargon I noticed a change for the better. I am on my third bottle now. My troubles are ended and I feel like a new man."

FRED BLASER

"I was so weak and rundown that with every change in the weather I caught cold and had a hard cough. My liver was out of order and I was badly constipated. I had no appetite. Food of any sort didn't appeal to me. I had severe headaches nearly all the time. I was bilious, my tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth. I was losing weight and strength rapidly. I didn't sleep well and in the mornings I was tired, sluggish and generally felt worse than when I went to bed."

Fred Blaser, 261 Fifteenth St., Milwaukee, who came to this country from Switzerland when a boy, recently made the above statement. Mr. Blaser is connected with one of the city's largest bakeries and is regarded highly by his many acquaintances.

"A large number of my friends who had been taking Sargon for some time, spoke so highly of the treatment that finally I tried it. All traces of my former troubles have disappeared. I am in better health than I have been since I came to this country when a boy. From my own experience I can sincerely endorse Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills. The pills are different than any I ever used. They are dependable and cause a natural easy action. They do not gripe or sicken in the least. I give the Sargon treatment full credit for ending my health troubles."

Sargon may be obtained in Appleton from Volgt's Drug Store and in Kaukauna from H. G. Brauer.

21,000 STATE WAR VETS REJOIN LEGION

More than 21,000 of the 23,614 members of legion posts in Wisconsin have renewed their memberships for this year, according to recent reports from the state office. The Ninth district, of which Appleton is a part, is second among state districts, the report shows, with 2,591 renewals. The First district leads the state with 2,624 renewals, the Ninth is in second place, the Eleventh in third with 2,391 renewals and the Second district is fourth with 2,364. The Ninth district auxiliary is far down the list with only 851. The Tenth district leads the state auxiliary with 2,031 renewals.

Your Home Garden Needs Carefully Chosen "Diet"

EDITORS: Here is the fifth of a series of timely articles on "Planning and Planting for Spring" which Romaine E. Ware, nationally known authority on gardening, is writing for The Post-Crescent.

BY ROMAINE E. WARE
For NEA Service

Food for your garden is more important than many realize. More gardens starve to death than suffer from overuse of fertilizer. And most home gardeners do not understand fertilization.

Probably the safest and best all around fertilizer for the garden is bone meal. For quick action, use the steamed, and for slower effects, the ure, and sink them in the barrel of water. Within a few days you will have a liquid manure. Dilute this with about three times as much water and use it upon the ground around your plants. The soil will absorb the liquid manure better if it is slightly moist. Blood meal, ammonium sulphate and nitrate of soda may be added also, the last two in very small doses as they are very strong and may harm rather than help.

There are many special plant foods and commercial fertilizers on the market and most of them are good. It will pay you to study them and try some experiments with them in your garden.

It is by trying out different things that you learn the habits and needs of your plants. If you wish to get the greatest value from your experiments, you must keep careful records of them. In this way you will gain real knowledge and your gar-

BELGIAN TROOPS SEEK PASSAGE INTO STATE

Madison —AP— Governor Kohler has received from Secretary of State Kellogg a request for authorization of passage of Belgian troops through Wisconsin. The troops are the band of the royal regiment of guides, entering this country about March 15 for an eastern, southern and northern tour. The band, from the Cavalry Regiment of the Household Brigade of the Belgian army, is to play in Milwaukee May 18, if permission of the foreign force to enter the state is granted, which, the executive said, the adjutant general will undoubtedly do.

dening will be of genuine value to you. It is impossible for the garden-er to know too much about the needs and habits of the plants.

CLIMATE, AGE
WORK, CONTROL
OUR DAILY DIET

By NEA Service

Climate, age and occupation are the influencing factors which should control our daily diet.

During the winter months the body has craved foods that would supply heat and the foods that do this are the starches, sugars and fats. A diet that is made up of these foods and meat without vegetables would prove inefficient and provide opportunity for disease.

Although we may have used plenty of vegetables all winter we must keep on using them while we add fresh fruits for dessert in place of puddings.

It's vitally essential that we keep in our "ration" both fresh fruits and vegetables as well as milk. This means adults as well as children. While the amount of milk required for adults is less than that for children a pint a day should be calculated for grown-ups. This can be used in cooking.

Fruits and vegetables are bulky and not concentrated foods. To keep "fit" we must have some material that will give the digestive tract its much needed exercise. The French have called spinach "the broom of the stomach" and in the last few years we have learned that other vegetables can be substituted for spinach to good effect if this much lauded vegetable is personally obnoxious.

Vegetables and fruits are mineral-rich foods and have a distinctly tonic-like effect. It seems most interesting to know that even an iron tonic taken as medicine cannot do the good work that the iron rich foods can do. Provided of course that the body has not been starved and actual illness is the result.

Perhaps a list of these foods so rich in iron will be convenient to have at hand to refresh our memories: spinach, cabbage, lettuce, asparagus, string-beans, celery, radishes, raisins, prunes, dates, olives, lean beef, oatmeal, eggs and whole wheat.

Vegetables and fruits keep the blood non-acid. In other words it's wise to keep the blood as alkaline as possible by using enough fruits and vegetables to counteract the effect of meats and cereals which leave an acid ash when burned in the body. Try to include fresh fruit in some form in two meals a day and use at least two vegetables as well as a salad in two meals.

LEATHER CAN BE BOUGHT BY THE YARD NOW

Piece goods attracts many buyers in the department stores at present but none is more popular than the leathers. These may now be by the foot or by the skin. These leathers are used for trimmings and other decorative uses and show an increasing importance as a fashionable material. The stores suggest methods of cutting and finishing. Enough sheepskin for a medium sized pattern of short sports jacket bought in this way costs about $13.

REMOVABLE COVER

You will not regret the time spent in making removable covers for both your small and large ironing boards. Use unbleached muslin, shape to the board and sew sets of tape strings to tie on.

Small Chateau Cottage

BY CORA W. WILSON
THE making of a home is so much a part of our every day existence that sometimes we fail to recognize its supreme importance in our lives and in the lives of the nation. It is the architects and home makers who have built up the country for a home is perhaps the strongest incentive to progress that functions in our individual and national development.

Here is an interesting copy of a chateau type of cottage of just the right size for the small family of today. The house is frame structure with a cream color stucco exterior, a shingle roof of snuff brown, wood shutters painted blue green, and an oak paneled door with black wrought iron hardware, and a stucco chimney.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

Three Tinymites, far under ground, were hoping Clowny could be found. They'd dropped down through a deep-sunk shaft, and now were in the dark. Said Conny, "Well, I hope that we can shortly set poor Clowny free. No doubt, if he is safe, he thinks this all is quite a lark."

"But we are all scared, there's no doubt. I'll be real glad when we get out. The air is getting stuffy and it's feeling rather hot. This is a coal mine. I'll just bet. I've never seen so much coal yet. Let's start to move around a bit. To stand still's tummy rot."

"You're right," said Conny, with a sigh. "If Clowny's really right near by, it's up to us to find him, so we can't just idly stand. You see, he may be in a trap, or else just taking a nap. We never will find out until this whole big cave is scanned."

So, off they started, by some walls, imagining they heard queer

The Fifteen Dollar Girl
Buys Her Easter Clothes

EDITOR'S NOTE: Smart Easter wardrobes to fit every purse are described in a series of six articles which Julia Blanshard, fashion writer for NEA Service, has written for Appleton Post-Crescent. This article, the first, suggests spring clothes for the $15-a-week girl.

BY JULIA BLANSHARD

Getting in step with style for the Easter parade in the subject uppermost in feminine minds today. After all, American women do have the reputation of being the best dressed in the world. They just must live up to it!

This does not mean just the millionaires, however. The amazing thing about the American Easter style show is the real democracy of chic it parades. The little girl with a negligible salary often does more than her full quota to keep the style title in this country.

This year, the $15-a-week girl has more luck than last. Diversity of styles affords her a wider choice of Easter outfits. Moreover, manufacturers now have perfected the idea of inexpensive reproductions of really good styles. Cheapness and frumpiness no longer are of necessity synonymous.

ONE WEEK'S PAY—ONE WARD-ROBE

Statistics show that a girl of this salary usually has, as a maximum, but one week's pay envelope to purchase her Easter outfit. The only way she can clothe herself at all is to budget.

In budgeting, she should account for a costume, hat, shoes and hose. Gloves, bag and other accessories are desirable, but not absolutely necessary. The costume, obviously, should not cost more than $10. Since there are thousands of stores now catering to this particular little Miss America, it is possible that she can get her costume for less than $10, thus leaving a little more for the rest of her outfit.

Three types of available Easter outfits are advisable from both a practical and a style point of view this season for the $15-a-week girl. First, the ensemble of silk frock and blue, black or brown unlined jersey or crepe coat can be worn with other frocks, thus making several costumes.

Second, the worsted suit with three-quarters jacket which, worn with a pleated silk skirt and different blouses, can be made to lead a double life.

Third, the little jacket suit, obviously, the thing that most girls would like this year, since jackets are the outstanding style addition this Easter. I suggest this enviable choice last simply because, on $15 a week, the most desirable thing is not always the most practical.

Tans, greys and medium blues are excellent choices for the inexpensive wardrobe this year. One color should be decided upon, however, so everything can be bought to blend or match. Reds, vivid yellows and orange are best left for scarfs or other accessories. The Easter hat for this wardrobe should be a little felt one, perhaps in black so it can be worn with separate dresses later.

The first pair of shoes should be patent leather, since this looks well for street and parties. Pumps, one-strap or T-strap sandals can be had inexpensively this year. Belge hose, with more grey than pink, is the best choice. Fabric gloves should match hose. Envelope bags are a bit smarter than pouches. New scarfs are longer than wide.

SOME EASTER STYLE HINTS

In selecting a smart but inexpensive outfit, the following bits of style advice may be of benefit:

Remember that while prints are

COURTESY TO CHILDREN IS BASIC RULE

BY OLIVE ROBERTS GARTON

Do you interrupt your children and prevent them from finishing something they have begun?

Most of us do that very thing and it never occurs to us that it is a breach of good manners. For it is just as possible to be rude with our children as it is with our friends.

"Come here, Ben."

"Mother, I just have half a page to finish this chapter. May I?"

"Certainly not. When I call, you must come instantly. Little boys mustn't make mothers wait."

I've said it dozens of times myself, to my children, in the dark ages before we began to think of children as human beings, and study out this question, not only of their behavior toward us, but our behavior toward them.

"Drop everything the minute I speak!" The Great-I-Am commands. "My word is law. When I speak, jump!" Isn't it the truth that this is what we've been doing to children? It sounds funny when put into print, but really, it is not comedy, quite the reverse. The absolute monarchy has disappeared from home government just as it has vanished from the courts of nations.

Cooperation is the basis of good government everywhere. And if parents want cooperation they must "do as they would be done by." If they want considerate children they must be considerate themselves.

ABOUT INTERRUPTIONS

This matter of interrupting, now!

"Ben, I want you. When you come to a place you can stop, will you please come here?"

And I think you won't have so long to wait for Ben. His reaction probably will surprise you.

"Dorothy, come here. I want you to set the table."

"Mother, this record is just about finished and the last part is the prettiest. Please may I finish it?"

A minute or two more won't make much difference to the table-setting but her mother fears that Dorothy's answer smacks of disobedience and she bristles instantly.

"No, young lady. Shut that off and come right away."

If Dorothy's mother was constantly interrupted at things she wanted to finish, she would soon cherish father's answer of resentment toward her tormentor.

It follows that children must feel the same way.

CHIFFON PRINTS ARE AMONG THE PERENNIALS

New York—Printed chiffons seem to be numbered among the hardy perennials. They have been in vogue for some years now and are nonetheless so for this spring. The designs usually are of the smaller birds, fruits and flowers and these may bloom in a real flower garden as the edge of the skirts is reached. They are correct for both afternoon and evening wear when the sun is warm.

Instead of following the injunction "Go to the Ant," the sluggish millinery designer is now going to the country for models. The beret of the basque, the turban of the Turk and the Dutch cap of the Netherlands all find their counterparts in the spring models. Any of these goes well with the spring ensembles provided the chosen color harmonizes.

MILLINER GOES TO THE COUNTRY FOR NEW IDEAS

very smart, one times of them much faster than of solid colors. Skirts must have a bit of fullness this season, but the solid pleated skirt gets out of shape fast. Necklines should be feminine, with some kind of collar, now or lingerie touch. But light touches on dark frocks are a mistake unless they are detachable for laundering.

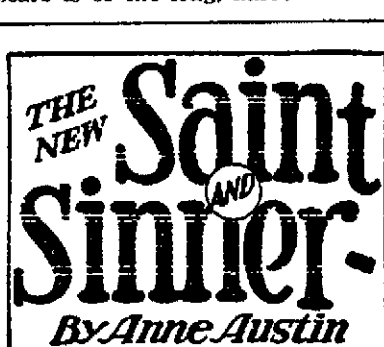

Hats should have a suggestion of a brim but whether they go up or down is immaterial. A hat's becomingness is its test of style value. The effectiveness of any costume is its complete unity. Hat, shoes, gloves, purse and scarf should be detachable only after they have been tried with the suit or ensemble they complete.

The "million dollar look" is only achievable when colors match and the feeling of the whole ensemble is the same.

Fashion Plaques

THIS SCARF HAT is fashioned of a silk and wool knitted fabric in beige and red browns arranged in the modern manner. The matching scarf is of the long, narrow variety.

THE NEW Saint Sinner

"I'm lost!" the listless girl in the wheelchair said. Then closing her eyes and shaking her head forlornly: "There isn't any Crystal, Tony. I can't find myself. No, let me talk," she insisted, like a forlorn child, as Tony was about to interrupt eagerly.

"When I was so ill I didn't know anything, my body fought desperately to get well. Just animal instinct for self-preservation. But when the fight was won, and I was conscious, I hated my body for not dying. Have you ever been to hell, Tony?" she broke off suddenly.

"Oh, a good piece of the way down," Tony confessed cheerily. "But someone always threw me a lifeline, and if you'd let me, I should have."

"I know!" Crystal interrupted, fresh tears gushing from her eyes. "But, Tony, I went all the way down. Down down down into the very pit of hell. And I found out something: Hell is really self-loathing. Heaven is being able to look yourself in the glass with respect. Well, I went clear to the bottom of hell."

Tony nodded slowly. "So you thought you could destroy your soul by dying, did you, Crystal? That's the reason you've let yourself get as thin as Greta Garbo, is it?"

"Yes. The sight of food nauseates me, because I know it will keep me alive," Crystal confessed.

Suddenly Tony laughed. "Well, Crystal, the joke's on you, because in trying to destroy your soul you've fed it until it's the most prominent thing about you."

Tony sprang to her feet, ran to the dressing table, snatched up a mirror, held it before the sick girl's puzzled eyes.

"Look at her, as if you'd never seen this girl before," Tony commanded. "You're like a lovely portrait that has been discovered under a blur. Look at your skin! New and clear and soft as satin. Like the petals of a creamy-white rose. Not a freckle on it!"

Crystal raised a trembling hand and touched her cheeks wondering, then her great hazel eyes widened upon Tony's, in a piteous appeal. "Your eyes, too!" Tony cried, her voice throbbing with the joy of discovery. "Wide and clear and innocent. Eyes like a child's—a child who has brought wisdom over from another life, but who hasn't yet learned the meaning of sin. Dear eyes!"

And gay, casual Tony did a surprising thing then: she bent over and kissed, very softly, the "new" eyes she had discovered. "You're a new Crystal," she added, smiling brilliantly through her tears. "You've been born again, Crystal, without even suspecting it. And what a beautiful new baby you are!" she exclaimed. "I'm dying to show you off—"

"Beautiful?" Crystal repeated, slowly, wonderingly. "Don't—tease me, Tony. I—couldn't stand it—"

"Not another tear," Tony commanded briskly. "You just wait till I've had a chance to show what a swell barber I am, young woman!"

NEXT: Tony exacts a promise.

Active People want and need sugar

The "Fuel of Preference" in the body

AN EMINENT food authority recently stated that any person who has a very active body is likely to be always on the edge of the sugar reserve in his body (glycogen). "That is why," he said, "the soldier and athlete wants and needs sugar. That is why the active child wants and needs sugar." He went on to explain that sugar is the fuel of preference in the body, that sugar can be more easily and quickly converted into energy than any other food. He emphasized the fact that sugar should form a part of the regular diet of every family and that any reducing diet, as well as any other diet, should contain sugar.

The best way for sugar to be eaten is as a flavorer of other foods. In that way, it serves the double purpose of furnishing energy to the body and also of adding appetizing delight to other healthful foods. Sugar added to healthful grain cereals makes them welcome and enjoyable to growing children. Think of how many health-giving fruits are objectionable to the taste without sugar. Scientists tell us that we need the daily roughage of salads as well as cooked fruits and vegetables. Any good cook knows that adding sugar makes all of these welcome and pleasant to the palate. In addition to being the best and cheapest fuel for the body, sugar is nature's perfect flavor. It makes nearly all other foods more enjoyable. For health and enjoyment, there is no substitute for sugar. The Sugar Institute.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Club Plays Are Shown At Church

WITH polished acting attractive costumes and scenery and a group of well-balanced one-act plays, the I. B. club program at the Methodist church Thursday evening entertained a large and enthusiastic audience. The plays, directed by Miss Elinor Strickland of the Appleton Women's club, will be given again Friday evening.

"The Flattering Word," the last play on the program, was the most enthusiastically received, perhaps because it was a satire on so common a human failing. The comic character of Mrs. Zooker, portrayed by Miss Esther Miller, and the masculine role of a prominent dramatic star, taken by Miss Irene Bidwell, were especially well played. The Rev. Loring Tingley was impersonated by Miss Viola Weber, and his wife, Mary, by Miss Emma Baer. Lena, Mrs. Zooker's daughter, was played by Miss Lois Smith.

"The Cloud," a tragedy of the Civil War period, was dramatically presented, with the killing of the two Southern soldiers by the old woman played by Miss Gertrude Thuss especially well done. Miss Helena Koleske impersonated the wounded Northern Soldier, Miss Lillian Seybold and Miss Cora Guenther, the Southern soldiers, and Miss Laura Livemore, Thaddeus Trask.

HAS ROMANTIC TOUCH

The fantasy, "Figureheads," was in direct contrast to the other two plays, but it offered a romantic touch that added much to the program. The two leading roles, the Prince of Domdometter and the Princess Felicia of Ponderay, were done with a great deal of skill by Misses Cary Short and Marion MacVean. The part of the maid was carried by Miss Helena Koleske, and Miss Anna Tarr acted as announcer. Guards were Misses Dorothy Fenton and Loretta Rieker, and Misses Betty and Marjorie Meyer were musicians.

During intermissions music was provided by Miss Evelyn Logan, Madison.

Elinor Root was stage manager, assisted by Dr. G. W. Rustede, Philip Ottman and Harry DuPont. Makeup was done by Mrs. John Engel, Jr. Misses Lucille Welty, Lois Kleshi and Dorothy Davis; costumes were provided by Mrs. G. D. Rowell, Mrs. W. F. McGowan, and Miss M. Naylor; and scenery was constructed by Miss Strickland and Mr. Root. Other members of the executive committee were Misses Laura E. Egan, tickets; Mrs. Nellie Hansen, publicity; and Misses Cora Guenther, Ilabae Stearn, Jean Jackson, and Marie Karsseboom, properties.

PARTIES

A farewell party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conn, who will leave April 1 for Los Angeles, Calif., where they will make their home, was held in the French room of the Conway hotel Thursday evening. After a 7 o'clock dinner, bridge and dancing provided entertainment. Prizes were won by Mrs. R. Brand and William Toll.

Womans Club Votes To Raise Dues And Cut Costs

A DISCUSSION of the future of the Appleton Women's club by the members Thursday afternoon culminated in a decision to raise the dues of the club, and to reduce the salary expense of the organization.

After considering the present financial status of the club, and prospects for the future, the club women decided that if there isn't enough to sponsor the present program there are but two things to do: Raise the fees and cut down the overhead. However, the revamping of the program was considered only a temporary measure, and all agreed that as soon as finances permitted expansion, a more extensive program would be mapped out.

The decision to increase the membership fee was unanimous, despite the fact that it might decrease the membership. The consensus of opinion was that it was more profitable to have 300 interested members than 600 who paid their membership fees and left the work of the club to a small group and it was believed that those who put more money into the organization will be more interested in getting something out of their contribution, and thus interest will be intensified. The new membership fee was left to the discretion of a committee to be appointed by the president, and the matter will be voted upon at the next general meeting.

RETAINS TWO EMPLOYEES

Although there was no decision on the workers to be retained it was evident that the club members felt the diminished program could be carried on by a general secretary and a physical director. The suggestion was offered that office help could be employed by the secretary and paid out of her salary, thus leaving the club responsible for the salaries of only two people.

While agreeing that the recreational work being done is highly commendable and showing good results, the members nevertheless felt that the girl scout work, swimming, and the summer camp at Onaway were reaching a greater number of girls, and therefore should be continued in preference to the recreational work. The employment department of the club also was mentioned as one of the projects that it would be advisable to drop for a time, thus cutting down office expense.

The criticism that not enough members of the club are willing to do the things that now are costing money was answered with the opinion that in the future if there are fewer paid workers to depend upon the members might become more cooperative.

FINANCES AT LOW EBB

Ways and means of financing the club until the beginning of the new year were discussed. According to the president, the cost of the present program until fall will be somewhere around $3,000, whereas there is only $775 in outstanding subscriptions and about $35 in the treasury. The suggestion that money be borrowed received only slight support, but a benefit movie, a "white elephant" sale and a series of food sales were looked upon more favorably. Mrs. L. C. Sleeper of the girl scout committee was questioned as to the possibility of the money to be received from the Girl Scout folk festival in the spring, which is being directed by Womens club workers, being used to defray the salary expense of one of the directors. Mrs. Sleeper stated that the matter would be entirely in the hands of the committee.

The meeting concluded with an explanation by Mrs. L. J. Marshall of how the Christmas seal money is being spent. She stated that the club had been criticized for using of the money for its general expenses, and pointed out that because so much of the club work is health work, permission had been given by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association to use part of this money for its health program. She also explained that although the money was placed in the general treasury, books were carefully kept, and that when the money is needed for health clinics and other work sponsored by the W. A. T. A. it will be supplied from the general fund.

Special to Post-Crescent
Weyauwega—While Lee Redfield, 7-year-old son of Mrs. Jerry Redfield, was trying to climb on a lumber wagon near the Baldwin creamery here about 4:15 Thursday afternoon, he fell under a wheel of the vehicle. The child suffered a broken collar-bone, and possible internal injuries are feared by the attending physician.

Witnesses say that Lee tried to mount the wagon from the side, falling under the wheel which dragged him for some distance before passing his body. There are no marks, however, to indicate that the heavy wheel ran over the child. Lee was taken to a doctor's office, and later was taken to his home by an older brother, Harold Redfield.

Official Proceedings

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS OF THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

The regular monthly meeting was held at the Lincoln school and was called to order by Mr. Kreis, Ch. All members present except Mr. M.

The reading of the minutes was dispensed with.

Mr. Kreager reported that a small fire had occurred at the Wilson school with a loss approximately of $100.00, that the necessary repairs had been made and that the insurance adjusters had been here to settle the matter of insurance.

Mr. Kreager presented the monthly bill, which was allowed and ordered certified to the city clerk. The classification follows:

Equipment $125.70
Janitors' supplies 162.00
Library 272.35
Improvements 274.48
Light and power 662.07
Water 115.06
Fuel 1965.45
Snow removal 191.65
Miscellaneous 23.00

Total $4337.21
Salaries 2972.62

Grand total $5314.83

Mr. Kreager has given authority to investigate and report on the question of deposit and interest on school funds.

Mr. Kreager presented a lengthy report of the special committee that had been appointed to investigate the matter of school site. Judge Ryan moved that this report be accepted. Carried.

Judge Ryan then presented the following resolution:

WHEREAS, the Board of Education after due consideration, decided to make a survey of the present and future high school needs, and

WHEREAS, for more than a year it has given the question a very careful and thorough consideration to determine the probable requirements, and also having been advised by a joint committee consisting of four members of the city council meeting in and advisory capacity with four members of the board of education which committee, after holding many sessions for discussion of and investigation of the subject, and by personal inspection and view of the present high school facilities, has filed its report and recommendations, and

WHEREAS, said committee has had before it a comprehensive and detailed outline of all matters pertaining to the growth and probable future requirements of the high school, and

WHEREAS, after making a careful investigation and examination of the data so presented to your committee, and its report based thereon, this board is now convinced that the present high school building will within a few years become entirely inadequate to properly care for the high school population; that it is deemed necessary to now take definite steps sufficiently far in advance of actual requirements to avoid the serious results incident to the preparation of a hurried and poorly considered program, and

WHEREAS, the board of education believes it is now in possession of the facts and data available to it to recommend a definite plan, as follows:

That the city acquire a site of at least 23 acres for a high school building, which site should be located in one location; that there be erected on such site a building of some necessary, a unit sufficiently large to accommodate the city's high school attendance for a reasonable period of years; that the present high school building be offered to the city for such purpose as it may be used for the land located in the third and fifth wards, and now owned by the city for school purposes be sold and the proceeds applied upon the purchase price of a new site, and

WHEREAS, the only other alternative (the acquisition of a new site) would be the razing of the present building and the erection of a new building, or the remodeling of the present one with such additions as under the circumstances could be made, and in view of the fact that the present building is a valuable asset to the citizens of Appleton that such a program might be a satisfactory solution of the problem.

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That we recommend to the city council that after a diligent effort to present a plan that will solve this problem for all time, and for the best interest of the future of Appleton, we recommend that the city purchase what is known as the Riverview Country Club Golf Grounds, consisting of approximately 104 acres, and to set aside such part thereof as the Board of Education shall determine is required for high school purposes, and to dispose of the balance, should it be deemed proper and under the circumstances, as follows:

FURTHER RESOLVED, That the City Council and the citizens of Appleton, after reading the report and recommendations of the Board of Education, still be of the belief that the present high school site and building could be made adequate and suitable for Appleton's high school requirements, and that the same could be economically and satisfactorily done in order to continue the high school site in its present central location, then the board of education will, upon request, immediately engage a competent school architect to furnish us with a report relative to every phase of the situation, which a continuance of a high school at the present location will require, to the end that the people of Appleton may have a full and complete understanding of the facts and enable them to determine whether such program would be for the best interest of the City of Appleton.

FURTHER RESOLVED, That we transmit to the City Council a copy of this resolution together with the report of the Committee of the Board with such other data and information as we may have relative to the question.

Dated this first day of March, 1929.

Signed,
JUDGE RYAN moved the adoption of the resolution and the ayes and noes were called for.

Mr. Kreager Aye.
Judge Ryan Aye.
Mr. Behnke Aye.
Mrs. Schmalenberg Aye.
Mr. Gmelner Aye.

Motion carried.
The usual monthly reports were presented by the secretary and filed.

The report of the Committee on Education was presented, but thereon was deferred until an adjourned meeting.

CHICAGO CITY HALL
SCANDAL EXPECTED IN INVESTIGATION

Federal Government Also Finding It Difficult to Correct Lake Drain

BY OWEN L. SCOTT

Press Association

Chicago—The federal government, which demands that the Chicago sanitary district either stop using large quantities of water from the Great Lakes, or hurry up the construction of waste disposal plants, may find that it is trying to draw blood from a turnip.

This Chicago taxing body needs $27,000,000 during the present year to meet the government demands and doesn't know where to get it. Their one hope lies in the state legislature which might authorize the issuance of bonds without a popular referendum. But local business leaders have refused to back up such a move. Officials of the district admit they are afraid to ask the people for the needed money.

These developments come on the heels of revelations that picture what prosecutors describe as one of the biggest scandals in municipal government history. Although the grand jury investigation is far from concluded, it has uncovered some startling conditions.

The district last year spent $50,000,000 more than it raised from taxes, bond issues and miscellaneous revenue. Of this amount $10,000,000 was in salaries. The district payroll just before the November election totalled over 4,500. After the voters had defeated the old regime and the excess workers were squeezed out the payroll totalled 1,100.

Sixty members of the state legislature were reported to have been on the district payroll. Hundreds of lawyers were employed in the legal department—most of them politicians.

BAR CHECKING UP
The bar association now is busy checking up on the work done by these barristers in return for the pay they received.

On top of that it was found that 314 persons were employed to kill mosquitoes. Inspectors were on the list by the hundreds—most of them pictured as precinct politicians.

Investigators found that $120,000 was spent for printing campaign literature for board members at public expense. A three mile long cinder path cost over $1,000,000, while a concrete highway of the same length was paid for at the rate of over $300,000 a mile. Lamp posts to light the road cost about $1,200 each.

Prosecutors now are seeking to obtain records of a trucking concern which did a large business with the district. The few looks that the investigators had showed such items as "whiskey $300; five women, $150" and more of the same kind of sort. There are hints of wild revels paid for with public funds.

The first grand jury, concluding its term, reported that the district had a deficit of $9,602,000. To meet current expenses the present trustees of the district have issued $12,000,000 in tax anticipation warrants. Where they are to get $27,000,000 more to meet the federal demands, remains a mystery.

BILL WOULD ALMOST MAKE WITNESSES TALK

Madison—(AP)—Witnesses in criminal cases who refuse to testify in their own defense would come under a snout and their refusal to do so could be called to the attention of the jury under a bill passed by the Assembly Thursday. The bill is by Slagg of Milwaukee. It is now before the senate.

It strikes from the law the statement that refusal to testify shall not result in presumption against the defendant.

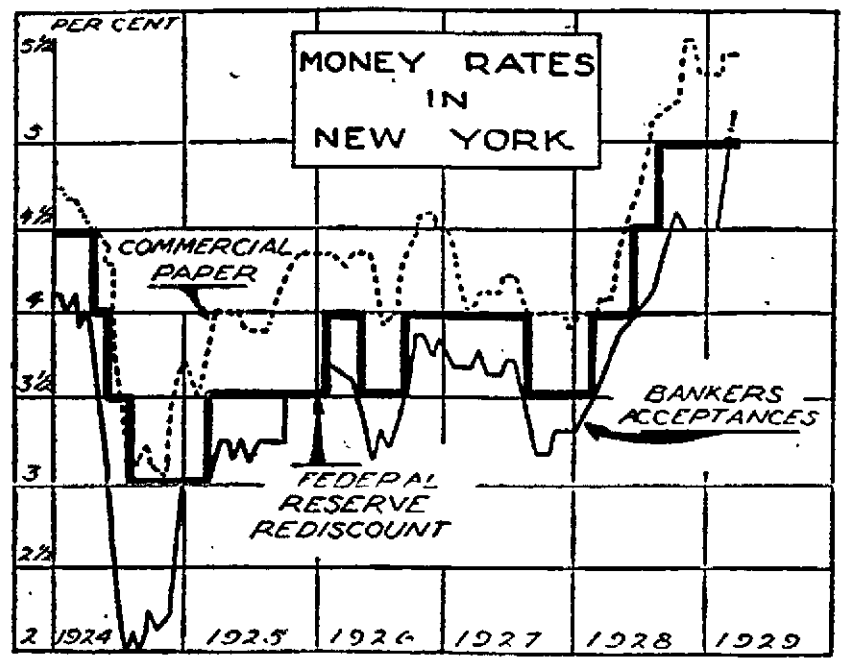

Assemblyman Slagg, in arguing for its passage said it had been endorsed by judges, including justices of the supreme court.

One member called it adverse to the common people, because it would bring innocent victims of courts to the greater attention of juries and jurists. Assemblyman Alvin Reis, Madison, however, said "It won't hurt the common people nearly as much as it'll hurt the common crook. Why shouldn't an innocent man be perfectly willing to testify to his innocence?"

The bill was passed by a vote of 55 to 31.

Bankers Look Critically
At Hike In Acceptances

New York—(AP)—Increase in the rates at which business may obtain credit at the banks, coming during the early weeks of the year when the normal seasonal tendency is downward, has caused serious misgivings in banking circles.

The outstanding development has been the almost perpendicular rise in bankers' acceptance rates. This has raised the demand for this form of credit as an investment, but has caused considerable uneasiness over its ultimate effects. It may result in a sharp falling off of the use of this form of credit, may lead to an increase in the federal reserve discount rate, and may tend to divert business in dollar exchange into sterling exchange.

The acceptance market went through several weeks of demoralization after the federal reserve system announced early in December that it felt it should no longer carry the bulk of the outstanding acceptances, and called upon the member banks to shoulder part of the burden. The recent rise in rates, however, carrying 90 day acceptances to 5 1/2 per cent, has made them an attractive form of short term investment, and banks and insurance companies have begun to buy acceptances in considerable volume.

But the rates are now above the federal reserve discount rate, a development which in the past usually foreshadowed a higher discount rate. While the present situation is regarded as unique, with the reserve banks attempting to withdraw from the acceptance market, the higher acceptance rates are regarded as likely to bring a making up of the discount rates if the banks increase their federal reserve borrowings to buy acceptances.

Use of the bankers' acceptance, or bankers bill, which is a draft or bill of exchange accepted for payment by a bank, was instituted in the United States by the federal reserve system 14 years ago as a liquid short term of investment to aid in financing the movement of crops and other commodities to help finance foreign trade, and to encourage the use of dollar exchange, rather than sterling exchange, by

The fire and police commission will probably not meet for another week to act on 25 applications for positions on the Appleton fire department. There are several vacancies to be filled and the commission must meet to act on applications and set a date for an examination of those seeking the jobs. Applications still are being received, according to E. A. Schmalz, secretary.

ENGLISHMEN SHOW
ANOTHER WAY TO ENDORSE GOODS

Prominent Men Refuse to O.
K. Advertisements, but Express Opinions

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
Copyright, 1929, by the Consolidated
Press Association

New York—As General Robert Lee Bullard is removed by the War department for his endorsement of an advertised product, Great Britain's literary geniuses point the way to a new method by which eminent names may serve the uses of business without fear of criticism.

A London department store published Wednesday and Thursday full page advertisements in leading American newspapers refusals to write about their department store by Arnold Bennett and H. G. Wells. The store explains that it had "ventured to invite three of our greatest masters of the written word to lend the influence of their pens to the cause of business."

Both Mr. Bennett and Mr. Wells decline emphatically to lend themselves in this manner to commercial enterprise but they gracefully disclose a deep and heartfelt appreciation of department stores. Both explain that they have written novels about them.

"I have already sketched the appearance of your type of business in 'Clissold,'" says Mr. Wells, "and of something distinctly akin in 'Tono-Bungay.'"

Mr. Bennett concludes his letter with "I must therefore, with lively regret, decline your proposal." But Mr. Bennett, uncompromising as he is, allows the following amiable sentiments to creep into his letter:

"GIVE HIS SENTIMENTS
"On my side I will tell you that as a writer I have always been keenly interested in the very impressive phenomenon of the big department store, regarded either as picturesque spectacle, or as a living organism or as a sociological portent. I am all in favor of the departmental store. I cannot keep my eyes off its window display, its crowds of customers, its army of employees."

The department store did the best it could with this turn-down by making it the basis of an international advertising campaign. There is no telling what they might have done had Mr. Bennett decided to flout public opinion and tell the world that he really likes department stores—that when he felt like a cup of tea, he always reached for a department store.

It is not at all unlikely that the clever British device will be taken up in America there are still several admittedly famous persons in this country who have not endorsed anything.

The third refusal from the remaining master of the written word is

RIP VAN WINKLE
REPRODUCED IN SAND BY PUPILS

Through the chatter of recess periods and the hum of daily routine lessons, old Rip Van Winkle sleeps on and on. Not satisfied with reading Irving's classic in school and practicing the operetta "Rip Van Winkle" after school, the pupils of the sixth grade at McKinley school have set about the task of depicting the main events in Rip's life in their sandtable. At present Rip is snoring amid the trees on Fairy mountain, with his trusty dog rustling beside him and the little dwarf creeping up the side of the hill. Down in one corner Rip is shown fishing and in another part of the sandtable the modern village to which Rip returns after his long sleep is portrayed.

Howard Knaack is chairman of the committee in charge of the project and working with him are Dorothy Smith, Dot Blake, Helen Rhoder and Joyce Coon.

Prior to the Rip Van Winkle project the sandtable represented an old English castle scene, with moat, drawbridge and an army of advancing soldiers.

STRESSES IMPORTANCE OF UTILIZING LEISURE

"What we do in our leisure time determines what we accomplish and therefore the leisure time of our youth is our largest problem," stated Alexander Karr, who is assisting in the Forward Expansion program of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting of the Appleton Woman's club Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Karr told of the Greek attitude toward playtime with its result in facilities for sports and other recreations, and compared this to the present hurried pace and fast moving cities. He showed how sports and recreation teach character, and how necessary it is that recreation halls be provided for the younger generation.

"Church, family, lodge—none of these can exist without a place to live, and neither can community spirit. A community building would give an opportunity for social intercourse, and this would lead to a mental interchange, that would result in united activity."

Following complaints of Asiatic communities in the Straits Settlements against lack of hospital accommodations, a general hospital costing several million dollars will be erected at Kuala Lumpur.

breathlessly awaited in England, as in America. If it reveals the same cold hospitality to department stores as the other two, the advertising campaign doubtless will be extended to Australia, South Africa and the Orient.

Facts you may give me with both hands, but not money," says Mr. Wells.

PROPOSED FISHING BILL
OPPOSED BY FISHERMEN

Samuel Sigman, local attorney and general director and counsel for the Wisconsin Federation of Commercial Fishermen was at Madison Thursday with more than 30 fishermen from ports on Lake Superior, Green Bay and Lake Michigan, preparing for annual opposition to the assembly conservation committee's bill making many changes in the Wisconsin laws on size of fish that can be legally caught, size of mesh in nets, prohibiting ice fishing and various other major provisions.

The fishermen are supporting a bill, sponsored by the association, which they claim will be of more benefit to them.

Marquette fishermen strongly oppose the provision in the conservation committee's bill prohibiting the fishing through the ice which, they say, would destroy their winter livelihood.

"Dream of Valley Queen," a waltz written by Clarence H. Meltz, 1691 N. Morrison-st., is to be played over radio station WHYY at De Pere during the noon hour program on Saturday. The song was published by Frank Harding, New York publisher.

Mr. Meltz now is working on a fox trot entitled "Who Did That." It also is to be published by a New York firm.

THIS HAS HAPPENED
Between one and four o'clock Saturday afternoon, "HANDSOME HARRY" BORDEN, promoter of "ubiquitous stock companies," is shot. On Monday morning, his secretary, RUTH LESTER, is found dead in the window of his private office. McMANN, detective sergeant, conducts the investigation in the office of the victim.

The first suspect is MRS. ELIZABETH BORDEN, estranged wife of the dead man, and mother of his children, who admits she called on him Saturday afternoon for her monthly alimony check, but insists he was alive when she left him. The next suspect is Ruth Lester. She confesses that Borden annoyed her with his attentions on Saturday morning but staunchly denies any knowledge of the crime.

JACK HAYWARD, Ruth's fiancé, is questioned next. His office is across the narrow hallway from Borden's private office. He tries to explain his return to the seventh floor Saturday afternoon by saying he left his and Ruth's matinee tickets on his desk. Jack's guilt seems emphasized by the testimony of MICKY MORAN, and OTTO PFLUGER, elevator boys, and BILL COWAN, friend who told Jack's threatening Borden's life when he saw Ruth struggling with Borden in the opposite office.

McMann sends for MINNIE CASSIDY and LETTY MILLER, seventh floor scrubwomen; BENNY SMITH, Borden's office boy, and CLEO GILMAN, Borden's discarded mistress. Borden's discarded mistress, RITA DUBOIS, night club dancer, admits a weekend planned with Borden. She confesses her call to the office Saturday afternoon to get the torn half of a $500 bill Borden promised her, but insists she left him alive. McMann finds a 10-foot pole in Jack's office with which the window across the hallway could be closed. ASHE, Borden's servant, is shown in. He has said he believes he knows who killed Borden.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Detective Sergeant McMann betrayed no surprise or pleasure when Frank Ashe, Borden's manservant, made his startling assertion, but Ruth Lester leaned forward tensely, one hand trembling against her throat.

"So you think you know who killed Borden, Ashe? Well, what was it?" McMann asked matter-of-factly.

"I don't know her name, sir, but I do know he was in mortal terror of a woman, sir," the valet answered earnestly.

"Tell me what you know, Ashe, and make it snappy," McMann directed, with pencil poised over a pad of scratch paper.

"Well, sir," the valet began, with dignified eagerness. "It happened on Christmas Eve. Mr. Borden was going to a big party at the Dancing Bear, with Miss Gilman, but to dinner and the theater first."

"With Miss Cleo Gilman?" McMann interrupted sharply. "How do you know?"

"I heard him talking with Miss Gilman over the telephone about the party, sir," the valet answered readily. "He had had me call her number as he frequently did. Miss Gilman was—the man coughed apologetically—"Mr. Borden's lady friend until recently, sir, until he took a fancy to Miss Dubois, the dancer at the Golden Slipper, sir."

"You didn't let much slip past you, did you, Ashe?" McMann grinned. "Well, I'm glad you didn't. Now what happened on Christmas Eve?"

"Sir, Borden came home about six o'clock to dress for dinner and Mr. Bailey was with him."

"Jake Bailey?" McMann cut in. "Yes, sir, Mr. Jake Bailey. Mr. Borden never said so, but I got the idea that Mr. Bailey was a sort of bodyguard to Mr. Borden. I know that Mr. Bailey carried a gun, for I have seen it in his hip pocket when he'd take his coat off to play poker with Mr. Borden late at night."

"When Mr. Borden couldn't sleep and wanted company. A nervous sort of man, Mr. Borden was."

"On Christmas Eve the two of them came in together and Mr. Borden told me to mix some cocktails. He wanted creme de menthe in them and it happened that the bootlegger, who's on the third floor of our apartment hotel, though I hope, sir, you won't use this against him."

"I'm not in the prohibition enforcement department," McMann grinned. "Go on. You were down for the stuff, eh, because the bootlegger was behind on his Christmas deliveries?"

"Why, yes sir," the valet assented, surprised. "And knowing I'd be right back and that Mr. Bailey was with Mr. Borden, I left the foyer door on the latch—clicked it, you know, to save the bother of unlocking when I came back with my hands full. Mr. Borden wanted a few other things besides the creme de menthe, since I was going to the bootlegger's anyway. She must have been watching and waiting for her opportunity."

"She? Who?" McMann broke in sharply. "I don't know her name, sir, but the woman who was quarreling with Mr. Borden when I came back with the liquor, sir. The three of them—Mr. Borden, Mr. Bailey and the woman—were in Mr. Borden's bedroom with the door closed when I got back. I could hear Mr. Borden's voice and the lady's voice and I knew they were quarreling, but I couldn't hear what they said. I didn't want to be mixed up in any trouble, sir, so I went about my business—mixing the cocktails that Mr. Borden had ordered. That was in the pantry, right off the dining-room."

"But you did hear the woman's voice?" McMann interrupted. "What sort of voice?" High, low, harsh, soft?"

The valet hesitated, groping for words and a faint flush crept up his anemic cheeks. "It's odd, sir, but I did notice her voice particularly, because I recognized it as one I'd heard over the telephone several times. A beautiful voice, sir, sort of—sort of like the deep notes of an organ, if you know what I mean."

Ruth leaned forward, too excited to keep out of it any longer. "A contralto voice, Mr. Ashe—musical, but low pitched?"

"That's it, miss, exactly," the valet nodded gratefully. "Maybe she's telephoned here at his office, too. I take it you were his secretary, miss?"

He mentioned that he had a little bit of a blond girl for his secretary, but he didn't didn't say. "What a little beauty she is?" McMann helped him out, chuckling. "Yes, Miss Lester was Mr. Borden's secretary, Ashe. You say this mysterious female with the contralto voice telephoned Borden frequently before Christmas Eve?"

"Not frequently, but several times, sir. The first time, although she wouldn't give her name, I put Mr. Borden on the phone and he told me when he'd hung up as quick as if the receiver burned his ear, that he'd fire me if I ever did it again. After that, the three or four times she called, I mean, I always said my master was out, for I couldn't mistake that voice. Once she changed her voice completely, so that I was fooled. Said she was Miss Gilman and made her voice sound almost like Miss Gilman's too. So of course I called Mr. Borden to the phone, but he didn't fire me, under the circumstances, though he bawled me out proper for having let him in for it."

"All right, Ashe. Get along with your story," McMann directed impatiently. "You're sure this was the same woman—I mean, that the woman who slipped in after you'd left the door unlocked was the woman whom Borden wouldn't talk to on the telephone?"

"Yes, sir. Sure of that, sir," the valet nodded emphatically. "As I was saying, I mixed the cocktails and just as I was shaking them I saw, through the archway between the dining-room and the living-room a sight that made me turn sick, sir." The valet paused dramatically. "Well, what was it?" McMann demanded.

"A woman being half dragged, half carried, from the bedroom through the living-room to the foyer," the valet said impressively. "Mr. Borden holding her up by one arm, Mr. Bailey by the other. She looked like she was drunk or asleep but it wasn't that, for there was blood on her mouth, which Mr. Bailey wiped off twice as they crossed the living room. Knocked out, she was, sir."

"What did she look like—hair, eyes, complexion, clothes?" McMann rapped out, thoroughly interested at last.

"I couldn't see so plain at that distance, sir, but I had the idea she was not old and not young and her eyes were closed, so I couldn't say as to the color of them. She was wearing one of those little tight-fitting hats, but there was some dark hair—black, maybe—against her cheeks. Very white, they were, sir, in spite of her rouge. As to clothes I couldn't say, except that she looked like a lady, sir—dressed fine, but quiet, in a dark cloth coat. I believe, with a fur collar, but I couldn't be sure."

"They stopped at the door and I heard Mr. Borden say something to Mr. Bailey, then Mr. Borden held her up while Mr. Bailey came running for some of the brandy I'd just brought from the bootlegger. He spoke pretty rough to me, sir, told me to get into the kitchen and stay there till I was called for. When I came out, Mr. Borden having called me from the dining-room, he was alone. He took two or three drinks, one right after the other, and then Mr. Bailey came back. I gathered he'd taken the poor lady down and put her in a taxi, after she'd been brought to a little with the brandy."

"Any conversation between Bailey and Borden about the woman, that you overheard?" McMann demanded, when the valet paused.

"Yes, sir. While I was pouring out drinks for both of them, Mr. Borden said to Mr. Bailey: 'Jake, that was a rotten thing to do, but honest to God, I thought she was pulling a gun on me when she opened her handbag. And next time it'll be a gun—if there is any next time.'"

"And Mr. Bailey laughed, like he was trying to make Mr. Borden feel better, and said, 'You let Jake take care of her, Harry, and there won't be any next time. Either that, or give her what she wants.' Mr. Borden slammed his fist down on the sideboard and said, 'I'll be damned if I do! And then he noticed me and told me to run his bath. And that's all, sir, except that after that, until last Thursday night, Mr. Bailey slept in the apartment, and hardly let Mr. Borden out of his sight."

"Did the woman telephone again?" McMann asked, frowning mightily. "No, sir. Nor come back either, so far as I know."

"Do you know Mrs. Borden by sight, Ashe?" McMann asked suddenly. "Yes, sir. Mr. Borden sent me to his wife's home on Christmas Day with presents for the children, and I talked with her then. She sent Mr. Borden a gift, sir, though he hadn't sent anything with her name on it."

"You're sure Mr. Borden's visitor was not Mrs. Borden?" "Absolutely sure, sir. There's no resemblance at all, sir, except that both the ladies may be about the same age," the valet answered positively.

For half an hour longer the detective quizzed the valet on every possible phase of Borden's life, but beyond the fact that Borden had entertained rather frequently, giving "wild parties" in his apartment, Ashe could tell nothing of importance.

From him, however, McMann got the names of three of the dead man's male friends, though Ashe seemed dubious when asked to choose "friends" from among the murdered promoter's host of convivial companions.

"And where is Jake Bailey, Ashe?" McMann concluded his rapid-fire grilling of the valet.

"That I couldn't say, sir. He left Friday night for a bit of vacation since Mr. Borden was to be away for the week-end. He had given up er the door was torn open and Benny Smith, the office boy, fighting off the restraining hands of Detective Birdwell, plunged into the private office. "I want to see Miss Lester, I tell you! his room at the hotel, where he was staying with Mr. Borden nights, as I've told you. I expect he'll be back tonight, sir, unless he stays away to keep from being questioned. A man don't relish being a witness in a case like this, sir."

"You're right, Ashe, and thanks for coming in," McMann said, extending his hand with sudden heartiness. "Stay on at Borden's apartment for the present and let me know anything at all that develops. The police department will take charge of his mail, of course. Give my men any assistance you can when they go through Borden's apartment tonight. I may be along myself. Of course you know you're not to leave town until this thing is cleared up?"

"Yes, sir," the valet admitted gravely, as he sidled diffidently toward the door.

"Well!" McMann drew a deep breath and flashed a humorous glance at Ruth Lester. "There are enough women in this case to make up a Ziegfeld chorus. It shouldn't be hard to get a line on a woman with a voice like you and Ashe describe. I believe the poor old sufferer fell in love with her voice. I thought he was going to bust into poetry. You say she called Borden at 10 o'clock Saturday morning?"

"Yes, just before he came in. When he asked if there were any calls, I said that the woman with the beautiful contralto voice had called and he said something that I've just remembered: 'That voice may sound beautiful to you, but I'd rather listen to a riveting machine, and he shuddered, as if the thought of her frightened or disgusted him—'

She was interrupted by the sound of a scuffle in the outer office, and of a body hurling itself against the communicating door. A moment later

er the door was torn open and Benny Smith, the office boy, fighting off the restraining hands of Detective Birdwell, plunged into the private office. "I want to see Miss Lester, I tell you! GIESE THINKS MACHINE GUN IS GOOD EQUIPMENT

Action of the Wineago-co board in purchasing a machine gun for the sheriff's department was praised Thursday by Sheriff Fred W. Giese. "I am not asking for a machine gun for my office, however," Mr. Giese said, "but I do believe that it is a fine piece of equipment for county law enforcers."

Sheriff Giese likened the purchase of a machine gun with the purchase of life or fire insurance. It guarantees a greater measure of protection, he said, and doesn't necessarily mean that trouble is expected or will be looked for. When one purchases life insurance he doesn't do so on the expectation that he will die immediately or have a serious fire, the sheriff pointed out.

How Many Miles before you must say "I Need a Quart of Oil"

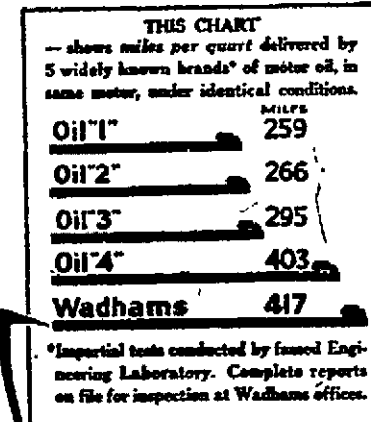

STOP repeating the same old story, time after time. "A quart of oil"—"a quart of oil"—"a quart of oil."

You know the trouble—fast oil consumption. Rapid breakdown, swift wilting away under the demands of new-type motors, higher driving speeds.

That's why the new Improved Tempered oil is now offered. It's Wadhams answer to fast oil consumption.

Now Wadhams unconditionally offers "most miles per quart." Offers it as a proved fact—not as a claim, not as a "sales talk."

Improved Wadhams Tempered Motor Oil

Per Quart 30¢ Worth More

This chart proves the facts—shows what impartial engineers discovered when they tested Improved Tempered against four other widely known, high grade brands.

This chart shows just one thing—most miles per quart. Buy for that one outstanding value alone. But you will profit also by two other characteristics. Extremely low free carbon content, plus lowest cold test, weight for weight, of any oil.

Say "I need a quart of oil" less often. Use Wadhams.

TOLL GATE SYSTEM COMING BACK AGAIN ALL OVER COUNTRY

Communities Are Using This Taxation Plan to Help Pay for Projects

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Copyright, 1929, by the Consodated Press Association)

New York—The old man who kept the toll gate a few decades ago, usually wore a high-crowned, smoked pipe and hobbled out of his shack by the roadside, to swing aside the pole which blocked the road. He has passed, but his system is back again.

In the economic cycle, American cities have swung clear back to the days of Daniel Boone. New York joins in a long list of other cities in providing that its new $100,000,000 bridge and tunnel project must be paid for out of tolls. The new tri-borough bridge will connect Manhattan, the Bronx and Queens and the tunnel will pass under the narrows, connecting Brooklyn with Staten Island.

Not only in bridge building but in road building, throughout the country, states and municipalities are tending towards making their improvements self-sustaining, going concerns rather than crowding the limits of their charter indebtedness by construction to be paid for out of taxation. Another factor which has, to this extent, placed governments in business, is the avoidance of inevitable, recapture fight which always comes in franchise proceedings.

Florida has made a decided success in paying for its magnificent road system by a tax on gasoline. South Carolina, and several other states have taken the same course. Texas is now about to decide whether its proposed $175,000,000 road system shall be built by general taxation or by a more direct gasoline tax, with the probability that it will choose the latter.

TEND TO SHIFT BURDEN

There is a definite tendency throughout the country to shift the immediate economic burden to the immediate beneficiaries. Jacksonville, Fla., in developing its own hydro electric system, has followed the Ontario system of amortization out of return, rather than by taxation. New York state is now considering whether it may be able to lower its income taxes by taxes on gasoline.

The Holland tunnel, connecting New York and New Jersey was built by the port authority, a joint creation of the two states, operating with private capital but with state guarantees back of it. It is providing a decided success and is paying out, according to schedule, by the toll system. The port authority was devised as a means of attaining economic unity in the port region and embodied the then novel idea of motivating public enterprise with the competitive energies and capacities of private finance.

It worked, and it was expected that the port authority would take over the tri-borough bridge and tunnel project. This probably would have happened had it not been for the fact that the city can obtain cheaper money than would be obtainable and this superficially public, but actually private, method of financing.

SEEKS NEW ENTERPRISES

New York City is moving defensively into new complexities and vast new enterprises in trying to free itself from an estimated loss of $365,000,000 a year due to the glue of population. The New York Board of Trade made a survey found the city's congestion was the worst in the world. The committee on plan of New York and its environs, working under the Russell Sage Foundation has concluded that nothing short of wide-decentralization will bring relief. Former police commissioner George V. McLaughlin has offered a comprehensive $200,000,000 plan of tunnel and bridge building, in behalf of private capital. The board of estimate has appropriated $100,000 for a survey of traffic problems to be conducted by a firm of engineers. Thirty seven business and civic groups have moved in on the mayor, urging surveys and constructions according to a unified plan. There is a movement for a city planning commission to pull together the isolated industrial and financial factors. In the meantime the per capita expense of running the city has climbed, at the rate of an increase of about $2 a year to $54.87 and the board of estimate, as in many other cities, turns toward the toll system for relief.

POSTAL SAVINGS PLAN IN CANADA DECLINING

Ottawa, Ont. — The Canadian government postal savings system, old enough to be the grandfather of the American system, is rapidly passing out of existence due to lack of patronage. Total deposits have shown steady annual declines, with the present total standing at $3,090,163. The strong Canadian private banking system and the low rate of interest — 3 per cent, are held responsible.

Millionaire's Son Takes First Rest In Six Years

BY RICHARD G. MASSOCK

New York—A millionaire's son who went to night school because he had no time for college recently took his first vacation in six years.

He had just bought for himself, at the age of 29, the massive General Motors building on Broadway. The price was $15,000,000, but Hugo Hoffman, the boy real estate operator of New York, called on no one for help. He just paid out his own money and assumed some mortgage obligations. The latter he intends to meet with rent money received from the General Motors corporation—which pays him about $300,000 a year—and other tenants.

Young Hoffman looks more like a movie hero than a landlord. Blond, blue-eyed and slender, he resembles Conrad Nagel as he sits at a large window overlooking Columbus circle and Central park. He gazes out of the window a good deal.

"You know," he said to me, "we are all dreamers in this business."

QUIT WALL STREET

If Hugo Hoffman was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth, he soon acquired one. His father, Frederick H. Hoffman, is a retired safety-razor manufacturer who sold out his business several years ago for more than $4,000,000. Hugo could have gone to the most expensive schools, but instead he preferred to work. So he took a job in Wall street, and studied law at night at New York university.

The stock and bond pace, however, left him weary. With his father, therefore, he formed a commercial banking company that handled automobile "paper" and gradually got into real estate financing. Then the father went to Florida to

ASKS STATE TO OFFER $5,000 IN OLSON CASE

Madison — (AP) — An appropriation of $5,000 to be a state reward for the capture of Erdman Olson, who is charged with having murdered his sweetheart, Clara Olson, has been asked of the legislature's joint finance committee by J. E. Messerschmidt, assistant attorney general.

Crawford-co has already offered a $1,000 reward, and private citizens have subscribed $1,500 for another reward fund, so if the finance committee adopts Mr. Messerschmidt's suggestion, the person who captures live and left the son to carry on, more or less alone.

His first big deal was the purchase and sale at a big profit of a 22 story building in the financial district. He did the same thing with a Park avenue apartment. Convinced by his success that Manhattan property offered the best opportunities, he decided to become thereafter a skyscraper landlord—he bigger the building the better.

Erdman Olson will be entitled to total rewards of $7,500.

Last summer Mr. Messerschmidt, on authority of Fred R. Zimmerman, man, governor at that time, made a thorough investigation of the two-year-old murder mystery. He reported to Mr. Zimmerman that he was convinced that Erdman killed the girl, and that he is still alive and in hiding.

IT'S NOT HARD TO GROW THIN

People all about you can testify to that. Most of the slender figures seen today have been won in easy ways. Many have been won by Marmola prescription tablets, based on a modern scientific discovery. People have used Marmola for 20 years—millions of boxes of it. Now slender figures in almost every circle show what Marmola does.

A book in each box of Marmola gives the formula and states the scientific reasons for results. So users realize how and why effects are beneficial. A way which has done so much for so many deserves a test from you. Make it now watch the results for a little while, then decide. Ask your druggist today for a $1 box of Marmola.

Valley Teams Win Opening Games Of Menasha Tourney

NEENAH, W. DE PERE AND KAUS, PAILS PLAY TONIGHT

Kaukauna, Menasha Show Class in Beating Kiel and Lomira Fives

MENASHA—The Menasha district tournament resolved itself into a Fox river valley tournament Thursday evening, at least as far as the semi-finals are concerned, when Kaukauna and Menasha both crashed through with victories, the former over Kiel 25 and 18 the latter over Lomira, 21 and 14. And Friday evening the two winners will battle in the semi-finals at 9 o'clock, the victor gaining the privilege of meeting the winner of the Neenah-W. DePere game at 8 o'clock, in the finals of the tourney Saturday evening.

Kaukauna surprised most of the folks at the tourney by its showing, the only amusement the crowd got out of the game was watching the antics of "String" Landemann, Coach Otto's beanstalk center. Kaukauna isn't liked very well by the group that attends Menasha tournaments and if it wasn't for a few home fans, the Electric City youngsters probably would think they were miles from their fair city.

Kiel started the fracas in an auspicious manner and counted a couple of points, which weren't overcome until K. Farwell began to snare a few of the five field goals he counted during the evening. Just before the end of the quarter, Bahr, Kiel center, hit the rim twice in succession and Kiel led at the quarter 9 and 7. But as K. Farwell continued driving away at the basket and the Kaus found themselves with a 13 to 11 advantage at the end of the half.

As the second half started Main and K. Farwell crashed through with a basket apiece and the Kaus then had a lead that Kiel couldn't overcome, 17 and 12. Main and K. Farwell contrived to widen the margin and when the former counted again and was aided by a couple of his mates the Electric City team coasted to a 25 to 18 win.

Lomira started the late game against Menasha by counting up 4 points before the Pails learned the opening whistle had blown and threatened to walk off with the hon or.

However, it didn't take the Pails long to solve the visitors attack when Webster, center, and Adams counted baskets to even the score. It was at this stage of the game that Vetter, forward, for the Pails took a hand in proceedings and counted a free throw and basket to put his team ahead at the quarter 7 and 4.

Vetter counted a field goal and Becker a free throw for Kaukauna, and Woegeler a field goal for Lomira, and the half ended 10 to 6 for the Pails.

Vetter continued to lead his teammates in the scoring during the second half and a couple long tosses and free throws soon had the Menashians away out in front by a 20 to 10 lead along for the remainder of the game giving a lone point while Lomira counted four. The game ended 21 and 14 for the Pails.

KE-NASH-A CAGERS
AMATEUR FAVORITES

Kansas City—(P)—The National amateur basketball crown, now held by the Cooks of Kansas City, will remain in the mid-west another year. Four mid-western states are represented in the semi-finals of the tournament to be played Friday night. Ke-Nash-A of Kenosha Wisconsin will battle Henry's of Wichita, Kansas and the champion Cooks will play the South Side Turners of Indianapolis, Ind.

Davenport University was baffled by the slow, cautious stalling game of Ke-Nash-A and lost 11 to 23.

On the basis of their play thus far tournament followers pick the Cooks and Ke-Nash-A to enter the finals Saturday night, with the result a toss up.

ILLINOIS RELAY MEET
HAS 800 MEN ENTERED

Champaign, Ill.—(P)—More than 500 track and field stars from 77 universities, colleges and high schools headed for Champaign and the twelfth renewal of the University of Illinois relay carnival Friday.

Twenty-six events are programmed for the carnival, which is generally regarded as the world series of national collegiate track. The all-around championship, embracing seven events, open the carnival Saturday noon with the finals at night.

Neenah Five Makes First Bid for Title by Trouncing Oakfield

MENASHA—Neenah and West DePere survived the first two preliminary games of the tournament here Thursday afternoon, Neenah winning from Oakfield, 27 to 8, and West DePere defeating Ripon, 17 to 16.

Although outclassed in size the red and white Oakfield warriors gave the lanky Neenah cagers a run for their win, but it is not to be assumed that the smaller aggregation will not make a showing in the next games of the meet. Pre-tournament gossip gave second place to the Oakfield five.

It was the old Jorgensen style of defense which became manifest at the beginning of the tilt between the Neenahites and the Oakfield five. Stacker opened up the bag of goals for the Neenah Redmen by sinking a short shot from the sidelines. Willard then fouled Scheller who in turn sank a free throw, bringing the Neenah lead 3 to 0 within the first two minutes of play.

Helmers starred for Oakfield and sank its only finger. He also counted a free throw. He played a dual role of guard and forward throughout the game.

The game between West DePere and Ripon high school was a give and take affair from start to finish. The score at the end of the half was 8 to 7 favor of DePere. The one point lead was maintained until the final game. Wallschlager, Ripon center, started the scoring in the game by sinking a long shot from the middle of the floor.

Most of the DePere points were made through short shots, only after the ball had been batted into the air several times. The Riponites on the other hand were slow and rangy, and completed their points through long wild tosses at the basket. Van Sistine starred for the DePere aggregation and sank three baskets.

Honors for Ripon were divided between Duac, left forward and Wallschlager, lanky center, each having 10 long tosses from the center of the floor. Wallschlager led in scoring however, by adding two free throws to Duac's single.

BOYLE TO CAPTAIN
APPLETON ATHLETICS

Hans Boyle, former valley league baseball player has been named captain of the Appleton Athletic club following a meeting early this week.

Otto Sternagle another former valley player was named manager of the team several weeks ago. The combination promised to give local ball fans a first rate aggregation in the Athletics.

Uzcudun In Porto Rico To Battle A "Palooka"

BY JOHN J. ROMANO
Copyright 1929

NEW YORK—Paolino Uzcudun is taking a short trip out of the country for the purpose of giving Porto Rican boxing fans a peek at his massive frame and punching power. The Basque has drawn none other than Francisco Cruz, a dub if there was one, in what is billed for a 16 round fracas on the twenty-fourth of this month.

Johnny Wild, the so-called Swedish champion, who lasted less than a round against Arthur Doherty, was first named as Paolino's opponent. Wild's record must have reached the ears of the promoter who promptly called the fight off and Cruz, a Portuguese, was substituted.

By the time this story reaches the fans it is possible Cruz may be shelved.

The writer was having a little fun with Al Mayer, Paolino's master mind, about the set-up picked for the hour battling Basque. "Maybe Cruz is a setup," replied Mayer, "but don't forget that a big fellow close to 200 pounds and with two sound arms is never to be played with. I remember when I made a tour of the country with Luis Firpo. They gave us Homer Smith for an opponent and I was assured Smith could not bother Firpo. I was given to understand that Smith was nothing more than a good workout for the shaggy puncher from the Argentine."

"It certainly looked that way for the first two rounds. Honest it was so easy that I was hoping Smith would make a showing just to satisfy the fans who had paid their good money to see a fight. Well, Smith came to life in the third round and hit Firpo on the jaw with a round house right. Homer did not know it or he might have finished off Firpo. I was held on and shook the cobwebs off my brain and lasted out the round."

"During the minute rest Firpo kept on complaining about being hurt and I had to tease him into getting mad. Oh yes, Smith was a set-up but you can take my word for it that he gave Firpo and myself the biggest scare of our lives. It was a good thing the bout was a no-decision affair or the referee might have been called upon to give the duke to Smith."

"Set-ups? There are no set-ups in the game. A fellow supposedly soft may be the one to put over a K. O. well."

Despite Mayer's statement the writer does not think Homer Cruz will answer the bell for the second round.

The Big Babe

They say that the Yankees will be hard to beat out of the American League pennant this season if Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig hit. If you were to ask the Babe, he could assure you that he is going to hit—and plenty. Ruth is shown here getting in shape at the training camp of the Yankees at St. Petersburg, Fla. He looks in great shape, doesn't he?

BUD TAYLOR AGAIN BATTLES AL SINGER

Two Fought Several Weeks Ago With Singer Winning on a Foul

New York—One of those incomprehensible things that crop up now and then in the boxing business goes back to the jury for further consideration at Madison Square garden Friday night. Mr. Al Singer, of the Bronx Singers and Mr. Bud Taylor, of the Terre Haute Taylor, will be recalled.

At the first hearing, some five weeks ago, Taylor was found guilty of foul play and Singer was awarded the verdict. The decision was far from unanimous. One judge and most of the 20,000 spectators voted for acquittal and in the same breath demanded a first degree verdict of some kind or other against Singer.

Some of them suggested grand larceny and others thought that wouldn't belong enough. In brief the customers accused Mr. Singer of taking the easy way out.

Yet in spite of the general belief that Singer had succumbed to an honest poke in the stomach, he is again the betting favorite in the re-hearing.

He was quoted at 4 to 1 the first time and this time the price is considerably reduced. You could get anything from 8 to 5 to 2 to 1 along Broadway, with the Singer admirers giving the long money.

OAKLAND-PONTIACS WALLOPED BY BAYS

In a preliminary which proved to be a better game than the final the Independents won from the Fort Howards by a score of 33 to 22. The Fort Howard team did not have its regular lineup in the game however as several of the team members are also players of the Kellys.

According to the statement of the Appleton manager several of his players were unable to make the trip including Strutz who he claimed to have a badly injured knee. He claimed that his regular team would have been able to injure the Kellys a run for the honors but as it was the make over lineup which he offered provided but little opposition.

HOOKS AND SLIDES
Henry L. Farrell

MY, SUCH A QUESTION!

RUTH, the Babe, considering that he is a high-priced journalist and newspaperman on the side, is a hard man to interview. In his newspaper writing career he hasn't learned yet that a reporter has to ask foolish questions at times just to satisfy the curiosity of the editor.

I was forced to put a foolish question to him in the Yankee training camp at St. Petersburg, Fla. He was full of sweat and a little out of breath and patience, perhaps, and I might have picked a better moment.

"Who's going to win the pennant this year, Mr. Ruth?" I asked him and the first response was a swell glare.

"Don't give me that Mister stuff. Are you trying to give me the razz?" he gruffed back.

Then he thought for a moment and said "Well, the Athletics ain't going to win this year, and neither are the Browns or the Detroiters. Now use your own brain."

I suggested rather meekly that he meant the Yankees were going to win, and he admitted it.

"You've got a great brain," he said. "That's just what I meant. The Yankees are in."

He took a slug of water out of the cooler and wiped off his face on his dirty sweat shirt and went into a little oratory.

"You're a helluva expert to be asking questions like that," he said. "What do we need to win a pennant that we ain't got? What have them other guys got that we ain't? We got pitchers and hitters, and we got guts."

"And, if you was around last year, you know what guts meant to our club. When you want to ask me what year it is, come around again,

KIMBERLY CLUB "5" DEFEATS CHUTERS BY 37 TO 35 SCORE

Game Settles Old Argument Between Quints from Two Villages

Kimberly—The argument about which is the better basketball team, Kimberly Club or Shorty's Shoes of Little Chute, is settled and the honors go to the Club squad. The deciding game was played here Wednesday night between the two quints. Kimberly winning, 37 to 35 score.

The first quarter started with Dud Courchane fouling Hillman, who made the basket. Van Handle scored a field goal and then fouled "Pete" Koll, who sank two gift shots. Some more fouls were made and Gossens made one, Courchane one and Scheurle two free throws. Williams dropped in a field goal, Van Handle scored another field goal and the quarter ended 7 to 6 in Little Chute's favor.

DuPont was substituted for Courchane and Miron for Van Handle at the half. Koll dropped in a field goal and Matt DuPont brought three pretty ones around in succession. Miron was taken out and VanHandle put back into the game.

Koll sank another and Gossens and Koll dropped in two apiece. Koll fouled VanHandle, who made the gift shot. Gossens then went on a rampage and caged three field goals and a gift shot, while Gunderson put in four keen shots, Scheurle three, Hovde two and Van Handle one plus a gift shot.

In the preliminary the Kimberly Club seconds started the good luck for the evening by defeating the Kaukauna Mulford 26 to 19.

HAGEN, DIEGEL COP-FOUR BALL MATCH

Beat Johnny Farrell and Gene Sarazen, Defending Champions

Miami, Fla.—Walter Hagen, paired with Leo Diegel, won the annual international four ball match golf tournament Thursday, defeating Gene Sarazen and Johnny Farrell, defending champions, 1 up.

Hagen won the last two holes of the final contest to wrest the championship from the defenders.

Hagen and Diegel gained the victory after a remarkable recovery from the tenth hole of the afternoon round where they were 3 down to Sarazen and Farrell.

Hagen took three of the holes in the most brilliant golf he has displayed since the start of the tournament, halving a fourth with his partner.

and you don't have to rap on the door. Walk right in."

BABE IN GREAT SHAPE

The Babe seems to be himself again after a very unfortunate experience that he was forced to go through during the winter. No one speaks about the experience to him, but we know from some of his few intimates that he has shaken it off.

At least when he is on the ball field. There is so much real love of baseball in the Babe that he can't think of anything else when he is on the field. What he consoles or distracts himself with off the ball field is his own business. But he obviously is in good condition.

THROUGH AS GREATEST

Personally, I think that the Babe is through. At least, that he is through as the Babe who was so magnificent in the World Series. The other ball players agree that he will be a good ball player as long as he is able to walk, but a great number of them I have talked to in the spring training camps think he is through as one of the greatest ball players of all times. If not the greatest.

State High Cagers Finish First Tournament Round

By the Associated Press
NE hundred and twenty-eight Wisconsin high school basketball teams went into action Thursday.

In the sixteen sectional tournaments to determine the quints which will fight it out for the state championship at Madison, March 31 to April 6.

With but a few exceptions the favorites rode to victory in the first round but the race is due to tighten up Friday afternoon and evening when the winners meet in the semi-finals to battle it out for the right to take to the floor in the "big games" Saturday night.

Meanwhile the quints that fell by the way side under the first barrage of baskets and free throws will make the best of their shattered hopes and gather the remnants of their strength to show they are good" after all the consolation rounds.

That the Badger preps play a good brand of basketball was demonstrated by the remarkably low scores by which virtually all games were decided Friday. Only in three cases did teams really "pile 'em up."

Scores Thursday follow:
At Platteville—Cuba City 16, Darlington 14; Fennimore 12, Gay's Mills 8; Platteville 44, Richland Center 16; Highland 27, Muscoda 7.

At Eau Claire—Eau Claire 27, Merillan 16; Mondovi 22, Stanley 20; Arcadia 31, Altoona 23; Chippewa Falls 21, Durand 14.

At Rice Lake—St. Croix Falls 14, Spooner 16; Luck 14, Rice Lake 15. At Algoma—Kewaunee 15, East De Pere 18; Denmark 30, Algoma 16.

MILWAUKEE FIGHTER MEETS FILIPINO

Milwaukee—The backers of Louie New took heart Friday and the odds which favored Ignacio Fernandez, bantam and featherweight champion, have changed from two to one back to even money. It is thought an offer from Billy Mitchell in behalf of the Antlers club of $25,000 to Tod Morgan to defend his title against New the reason. If New is successful Friday night the Antlers club will build an arena to stage the bout. This of course all hinges on the fact that legislature passes the decision boxing bill now before it.

Milwaukee fans who saw Fernandez recently with Cansora think him the greatest bit of fighting machinery out of the Philippines since Pancho Villa. He is busy all the time while in the ring and it is just too bad for his opponent if caught not in the "pink."

The Antlers club will follow through with its policy of double windup featuring Chief Jack Elkhart in the other half with Larry Peltz.

PASO ROBLES, CALIF.—(P)—The Pittsburgh Pirates have a to-bogean ready for a descent to the bushes. Three pitchers, a like number of in and outfielders and a catcher are to get a ride.

WASHINGTON—(P)—If comparisons mean anything, the fourth place Washington Nationals of last year are headed for higher things in the American league. Three straight victories have been chalked up in the grapefruit league including one Thursday against the National league champion Cardinals, whereas at this period last season the Nats had lost their first two starts and had got no better than a draw in their third contest with the lowly Boston Braves.

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—(P)—Charlie Root, ace of all Cub Pitchers in 1927 and one of the big disappointments in 1928, was to receive his first real test of the season Friday. Manager Joe McCarthy announced he would use Root against the Los Angeles club in the opening game of their 28 game schedule, beginning here Friday.

AVON PARK, FLA.—(P)—Billy Southworth's St. Louis Cardinals were soundly trounced at their home training park Thursday when Walter Johnson's Washington Senators put a 12 to 9 Indian mark on them.

FORT MYERS, FLA.—(P)—The Philadelphia Athletics were without services of Jimmy Dykes, Veteran ace baseman, Thursday. Dykes was injured in Thursday's tilt with the Phillies at Winter Haven when Lefty O'Doul slid into second. One of his fingers was cut badly.

CLEARWATER, FLA.—(P)—With Dazzy Vance about to enter the fold and Glenn Wright's arm mending rapidly, fortune has smiled on Wilbert Robinson and the Brooklyn Robins. Robinson announced that Vance's demands for a salary of $25,000 had been met by the directors of the Robins.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA.—(P)—The New York Yankees outfielders have plenty of power—what they need is a little direction. It was some wild throwing by the one and only Babe Ruth and the Rookie, Sam Rice, that forced the Yankees to accept a 6 to 4 lacing from the Boston Braves in a ten-inning battle here Thursday.

MANY STATES MAY CHANGE METHODS OF GASOLINE TAX

Opposition of Taxi Cab Industry in New York to Plan Attracts Notice

BY J. C. ROYLE
Copyright 1929

New York — The strong opposition which has developed on the part of the taxi cab industry of New York to the imposition of a gasoline sales tax by the state may result in revolutionizing the regulation of taxes in many states.

This opposition seems to have crystallized the desires of some leaders in the industry to see it under the regulation of the state public service commission. Many of the taxi cab owners have not yet gone so far in their plans, but out of the turmoil it is believed some definite plan will be formulated.

The position of the industry with respect to the gasoline tax is easy to understand. The taxi men say that the major part of the funds produced by the tax will go toward the building and maintenance of country highways, on which not one taxi in ten ever is called on to venture. They hold that such a tax is an occupational tax and that in view of the other payments assessed against them, it is unjust.

They point out that in New York City there are 20,000 taxi cabs of which about 15,000 are individually owned. These 15,000 men, striving to make a living, are being assessed, they say, for benefit of drivers who are driving for pleasure. They cite the taxes already placed against them, which consist of a $15 state tax, a $10 city tax, a $2 driver's license and a fifty cent hackman's license, a total of $27.50.

FIGHT STIRS SENTIMENT

In addition each must take out a $360 worth of compulsory life insurance. Whether they succeed in killing the proposed law or not it is probable their fight will stir up taxi cab owners in other states most of which already have gasoline sales taxes. "I am convinced," said T. H. Miller, President of the Yellow Cab company of New York, "that eventually the industry must be taken under the regulation of the state utilities commission. Not only would such a move equalize taxation and iron out rate structures, but it would have a tendency to keep the number of cabs down to the requirements of the public. This would relieve congestion and tend to improve profits."

To a greater extent all the time, taxi cabs are being absorbed by the street railways. This of necessity would at once put those cab lines in the public utility class, for regulation. The electric street cars still are one of the most essential forms of transportation but they need at the moment every aid they can gather to increase their earnings.

Revenue passengers carried by the street cars in 1928 totaled over 16,000,000. This was a drop of about 1 per cent as compared with 1927. The car fares over the country rose from an average of $0.80 to $1.25, but this was counterbalanced by higher wages paid.

Leaders in the industry, however, are gradually working out means for bettering the situation, which now is not sufficiently strong to attract the new capital desired for some needed developments. Budgets for these improvements this year call for the expenditure of $229,500,000. Much of this will go for new equipment but some, it is felt, will be utilized to take over bus and taxi companies, thus relieving congestion and making coordination instead of competition possible.

COMMUNITY NOTES

Packing House Products
Chicago — High priced hogs cause packing house concerns to report that pork is selling far below cost in eastern markets. Western demand has improved and is taking up some of the slack. Demand is slow for beef again.

Steel
Pittsburgh — The steel mill activity in this district shows no signs of diminishing. The present rate of activity is the highest of all time. Car orders are taking a huge quantity of steel and the eastern roads are scarcely begun yet. Pipe mills are quiet.

Automobiles
New Orleans — An automobile show conducted under local auspices has had an encouraging effect on the local car market and sales of dealers show a satisfactory improvement.

Rubber
Akron, O. — The Falls Rubber company reported that the company was already two months behind on its orders.

Fishing Possibilities In State Unexcelled

BY B. A. CLARKIN

The possibilities of Wisconsin as a fishing state are unexcelled because we have more natural waters adapted to game fish than any other state. That, of course, is the first thing to be considered. It follows, then, that we should and can have the best fishing of any state in the union. One of our counties, alone, has 1,200 charted lakes. Think what that means. And then we have over nine thousand miles of trout streams—more, I am quite sure, than any other state. In Kansas and Nebraska they are making artificial lakes to plant game fish in! Think what a handicap they face. And yet, they are doing it successfully.

Let's see how Wisconsin measured up in the Field and Stream International fishing contest for 1928. In the Speckled trout contest we landed fifth place with a fish weighing four pounds and 8 ounces. This fish was taken in the Peshigo river. Of the four fish that beat us three were taken in Canada and New Foundland; the other in Oregon.

In the Brown trout class we captured first, third, fourth and fifth prizes; the first prize winner weighing 14 pounds and 6 ounces, the fifth, caught in the Peshigo river, weighed 8 pounds and 2 ounces.

Now comes the quakelunge. This is the fish that draws more fishermen to Wisconsin than any other species, and they come from practically every state in the union. It is the biggest factor in our immense tourist traffic. We captured third prize in this class with a fish weighing 49 pounds taken in Pelican lake. And, by the way, during the first week of the open season in 1928, at one resort on Pelican lake, nine of these fighting monsters were landed, weighing up to 27 pounds. Let's go a bit further. During the season over 250 muskies were caught in Pelican lake!

MINNESOTA FISH FIRST

The first prize winner in this class was caught in northern Minnesota. It weighed but 12 ounces more than the Wisconsin fish. The second prize winner was taken in Pipestone lake, Ontario. It also tipped the beam at just 12 ounces more than the Pelican lake fish. By that it will be seen that it is not necessary to travel away up into the wilds of Canada, as thousands do, just to try for a record breaker.

And now, the Great Northern pike. How did we fare in that class? We simply took first, second, fourth and fifth prizes. The first prize winner weighed 28 pounds!

In the Walleyed pike class we captured first and fourth places. The largest fish weighed 11 pounds and 12 ounces.

Out of 27 prizes awarded for the United States and Canada in these five classes we landed 12 from Wisconsin waters. It is something to ponder over—such a showing—and, notwithstanding the fact that our fishing, so far at least as some of the species are concerned, has greatly depreciated in the last few years. This is well worth the earnest consideration of every citizen in the state. It will be an uphill battle, but we are going to come back in the trout and bass fishing, just as soon as the fish are artificially reared to the proper size before liberation, as is being done in other states.

PENNY ORGANIZATION

NOW HAS 1,212 STORES

J. R. Whitman, manager of the J. C. Penney company, Appleton store has received word that his organization has purchased the J. B. Rynders company, including the W. J. Lindsay company, recently purchased by the Byars company and the J. N. McCracken company, the two operating 117 Golden Rule stores in twelve states.

These stores carry a similar line of merchandise as the J. C. Penney company and with few exceptions are in towns not occupied by them. The new stores are being taken over as of January 1. The total sales in 1928 for the groups were in the neighborhood of $5,000,000 and it is anticipated this will be increased to $10,000,000 in 1929. The new purchase gives the J. C. Penney company a chain of 1,212 stores.

The Brownsville, Tex., municipal airport has been temporarily designated as an airport of entry by the treasury department. It is possible that in the near future permanent classification will be accorded this airport, since the United States-Mexico air mail route will have its northern terminus here.

Felix du Pont has completed a landing field on his plantation near Plattsburg, N. Y. Two runways measuring 1,500 feet long, are now available for operations. The approaches are exceptionally good. The airport is to be marked at once and a wind cone erected. Plans call for other facilities to be added later.

The airport at Las Vegas, Nev., is to be discontinued owing to the fact that the present lease has expired and officials have found it impossible to renew it favorably.

Owing to the strategic position of Las Vegas, midway between Los Angeles and Salt Lake City, it is considered essential that immediate steps be taken to acquire a suitable location for a new airport. The present field will be continued in use until a new one can be provided.

The local car market and sales of dealers show a satisfactory improvement.

EXPECT SITE OF FEDERAL BUILDING TO BE NAMED SOON

Although there is much speculation and considerable rumor as to the probable site of Appleton's new post office F. F. Wettengel, acting postmaster, said Wednesday that the federal department had not yet made any announcement as to the location of the new building, funds for which were provided by congress before President Coolidge's term expired.

Mr. Wettengel said the department was considering seven or eight sites and that any of them might be chosen as all were considered to be centrally located and of substantial size. Some decision on the matter is expected in the near future, Mr. Wettengel said.

How To Play Bridge

BY Milton C. Work

MR. WORK'S POINTERS CONTRA BRIDGE

Contract Bridge is young in this country and it is only natural that there should be many different ideas concerning bidding systems. It was nearly ten years after Auction Bridge was introduced before any system was generally recognized as being the best.

One point in Contract that is now being actively discussed is whether an original No Trump should ever be bid with a hand in which all four suits are not safely stopped. The argument contra is that the partner may jump the one No Trump to three without strength in the suit in which the No Trump is weak and that if both partners are defenseless in the same suit, it may be the suit in which the leader is long and the contract may be defeated by the running of that suit.

If a Bank-England guarantee accompanied any system of bidding, Bridge would resemble Chess; and there can be no question about the comparative popularity of the two games. Fortunately for Bridge, no one system of bidding will produce a more satisfactory result than any other in every hand; no system can ensure its users against occasional losses; no perfect system ever has been or will be devised. What Contract students and players are looking for is the system that will win in the majority of hands.

With a hand protected only in three suits, it is possible to bid a suit if you fear that type of No Trump; but it may be that the partner will have the need protection in your weak suit, and need not be able to show it. For example, suppose a Dealer holds:

♠ A-K-J
♥ A-K-J
♦ A-K-J
♣ 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2

What would be the probable result if he considered himself barred from bidding No Trump?

This subject will be continued to-morrow.

JUDGE NOT SERVING FOR 6 MONTHS MAY LOSE JOB

Madison — Judges of all courts of record who do not serve through incapacity or other reasons, for six months, would automatically lose their jobs under a bill presented in the Assembly committee on Municipalities. The governor would make temporary appointments to such posts under the proposed law.

Another bill would bring search warrants for narcotics under the law which allows search warrants for liquor violators and similar law breaking.

A bill to abolish the present athletic commission and substitute therefore a commission made up of the directors of athletics of the state university, Marquette University and Lawrence college, was presented by the committee on labor for some member and referred to the committee on public welfare.

O. K. BILL PREVENTING STATE TRADING LANDS

Madison — (AP) — Senator J. H. Carroll's bill which would prohibit the conservation commission from trading state-owned lands for the acquisition of Copper Falls park says in Ashland county has been passed by the senate, and sent to the assembly.

Two years ago the legislature authorized the commission to acquire the park site either by trading state lands in another locality for the property near Mellen which is owned by the Lake Superior District Power company.

Unable to effect a trade, the commission has offered the power company a cash price for the site. In that way it has anticipated the Carroll bill, which requires that site may be acquired by purchase, and not by trade.

KIMBERLY-CLARK HEAD SATISFIED WITH 1928 SHOWING

Net Sales Increase Over
'1927 but Net Income Is Lower

The consolidated net income of the Kimberly-Clark Corporation for the year ended December 31, 1928, adjusted to reflect the present annual bond interest and preferred stock dividend requirements, was $2,154,663, the equivalent after preferred dividends to $1.39 a share on 400,000 shares of common stock as compared with $2,917,367 or $1.73 a share on the same number of shares in the preceding year. Net sales of the corporation in 1928 totaled $21,533,263 as against $17,472,623 in the preceding year.

In his remarks to the stockholders, P. J. Sensenbrenner, president of the company, says: "Production of paper and pulp for sale during the year totaled 161,134 tons and despite reductions of prices, net sales amounted to $2,497,969 more than in 1927. Although the company is generally known as a manufacturer of book paper for use in printing, rotogravure sections, magazines, mail order house catalogs and such papers constitute the major parts of its production, it has been the policy of the company for some years to diversify its products so that today it manufactures a great variety of papers and paper products. Its leading lines of specialties are wall paper, school practice papers, high-grade deep color cover papers, absorbent wadding used exclusively in surgical work and in the manufacture of sanitary pads, facial tissue and other specialties. Current conditions and the outlook for a demand for the company's products for 1929 are satisfactory."

SNOW REMOVAL COSTS CITY $16,000 SO FAR

Keeping Appleton's streets and sidewalks open during the severest winter experienced here in a long time has cost the city more than $16,000 so far, it is reported by R. H. Hackworth, street commissioner. This is approximately three times as much as was expended for the same purpose last year, he estimated. The figure will be increased to between $17,000 and $18,000 before warm weather finally sets in, Mr. Hackworth believes. The city has approximately $885 due to citizens whose walks were shoveled by street department employees. The remainder of the snow removal expense must be borne by the city.

Spending Of Money For Education Is Important

Madison—(P)—Not how much money is spent but how it is spent for education is the problem confronting state universities as well as endowed colleges today, Dr. Clarence Cook Little, resigned president of the University of Michigan believes. He expressed this opinion while here for a scientific lecture.

"Selfish students have no place in college," Dr. Little said. "Yet we have neglected to ask students why they want to come to college. That seems the most important question of all."

"I do not believe in admission of social or anti-social students. They have no place in college. Students should be in university or college because they want to equip themselves for service."

"Money as such means little. It is far better, for example, to spend $3,000,000 for a good education than $1,000,000 to give one-third of an education."

Dr. Little favors entrance examination that would determine the qualifications of a student for admission, that would secure information on his high school academic record and that would determine his outlook on his environment and his reason for wishing to enter a university.

The colleges of letters and science and arts and sciences must go, Dr. Little asserts, adding these so-called literary groups "have lasted longer than any other form of college of similar scope and have done less."

Dr. Little does not believe the first two years of college should be devoted entirely to orientation. He believes in method would give the orientation without making it necessary to use two entire years.

Himself a biologist and intensely interested in research work, of which he has done much, Dr. Little stated:

"Research work in a state university should be carried just as far as possible. It is the best single phase of the educational system. Through it we may bridge the gap between the applied sciences and the pure sciences."

"Not only is it the most idealistic side of the university, but it is less tangled with politics, parents, or other outside pressure than any other side. It brings out the best in good students and keeps the best faculty members from leaving."

EVENING CLASSES AT TRADE SCHOOL CLOSE THIS WEEK

Large Number of People
Made Use of Courses Offered This Year

Evening classes at Appleton vocational school will close Friday evening, according to Herb Heilig, director. No special commencement exercises will be held, because certificates were awarded in individual classes to persons satisfactorily completing the prescribed courses. A large number of classes were held and a variety of subjects were taught in the school this year. The enrollment was exceptionally large, according to Mr. Heilig.

"Evening school is a service station for employed people who want to continue to improve themselves," said Bertrau, school coordinator said. "In this day and age people have to be progressive and up to the minute or they are soon lost in their own profession. Probably no age has there been the great progress that we find today. All industries must be regulated according to the changes or they become a back number and are eliminated by more efficient competitors."

"For the industry to remain a factor in its field it must have progressive workmen, foremen and superintendents. A workman cannot be a back number and remain a member of a live corporation. If he gets into a corporation suffering from dry rot he will soon find himself out of a job.

"It is evident that we all have to be alive to the new methods of doing things. If a better way has been found to do something it is up to the individual to find out what that is done. In addition to this each man has problems peculiar to his own job and position to solve."

"The best and most efficient method by which most people can improve themselves is through attending a school. If they are working, the evening school serves their needs. Here they work under the direction of skilled instructors who guide them from where they are, to where they want to go. Intensive training is crowded into short hours. Much can be accomplished.

"Millions of people throughout the country realize the necessity of continually improving themselves and keeping pace with modern progress."

DON'T TRIFLE WITH CONSTIPATION

Rid Your System of Its Disease-causing Poisons With ALL-BRAN

Constipation gets its grip on a person almost unawares. It starts with such little things. Headaches, listlessness. Bad complexions. Unpleasant breath.

If allowed to continue, constipation often leads to serious results. It poisons the whole system. Steals the charm and beauty of women. Robs men of their vitality and ambition.

Don't trifle with constipation. Rid your system of it by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—a delicious cereal. It is guaranteed to bring relief — to prevent constipation. Just eat two tablespoons daily —chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100% bran. It works as nature works. Serve it with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Use it in cooking—there are delicious recipes on the package. Grocers sell ALL-BRAN. Restaurants, hotels, dining-cars serve it. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's
ALL-BRAN

They are the people who are getting places in their chosen work.

"It is very desirable and happy condition where we find so many Appleton people eager to take advantage of the opportunities offered them through their evening school," he said.

KIWANIANS ENTERTAIN LADIES WITH PARTY

Appleton Kiwanians celebrated ladies night Wednesday at the Conway hotel when wives and lady friends were guests at a St. Patrick party. A 6:30 dinner preceded the entertainment program. Alexander Karr, educational director of Appleton chamber of commerce extension program was the principal speaker.

ENGLISH BARRED
Honolulu, T. H. — The English language is barred at meetings of the Hawaiian Civic club here. Members speaking before the club are made to play a small time for every word of English they use. The only exception to the rule is when a guest is present who does not understand Hawaiian.

PREPARE PLANS FOR LENTEN SHOP MEETINGS

Plans are being prepared for Lenten shop meetings to be held during Holy week, March 25 to 30 in local industrial plants, according to G. F. Fel.

Werner, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A. A special series of musical programs to be presented in conjunction with the daily services is being arranged by O. J. Thompson.

An automobile highway traversing South America has been proposed.

"BUTTON UP YOUR OVERCOAT"

This week's Victor record release contains four of the big song-hits from the Broadway success, Follow Thru. You'll like Button Up Your Overcoat particularly well. Waring's Pennsylvanians turn the melody into a rollicking fox-trot. There's a catchy vocal chorus, telling about the girl who wanted the Boy-Friend to button up his overcoat and take care of himself, because he belonged to her. Come in and hear all of these new hits soon!

Button Up Your Overcoat—Fox Trot (from the musical comedy, Follow Thru) With Vocal Chorus
My Lucky Star—Fox Trot (from the musical comedy, Follow Thru)

You Wouldn't Fool Me, Would You?—Fox Trot (from the musical comedy, Follow Thru)
I Want to Be Bad—Fox Trot (from the musical comedy, Follow Thru)

Sally of My Dreams—Fox Trot (from William Fox picture, Mother Knows Best)
Ben Pollack and His Park Central Orchestra
My Mother's Eyes (from Tiffany-Stahl picture, Lucky Boy)

Weary River (from First National picture, Weary River)

Famous Christians

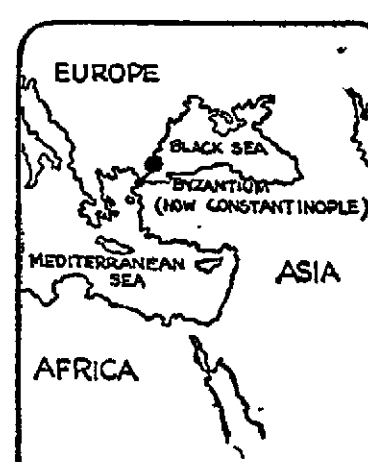

Constantine took the cross of Christianity as his standard, telling of a vision he had, the vision of a Cross, with the words, "In this sign thou shalt conquer." Meantime, arising in Europe were barbarous tribes, constantly gaining in their inroads upon Roman prestige.

By NEA. Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-26.

Restlessly these tribes roved over Europe, conquering and being conquered. Among them moved missionaries of Christianity.

Constantine had made Byzantium the chief city of the Roman Empire. In the next century the empire was divided into two.

Thenceforth the might of Rome was not the might of the state, but of the Church. Holy men carried the message of Christianity to the north and west. These were men who were not afraid to pitch the idols of the barbaric tribes into the nearest lake or chop down sacred trees while the wild heathen stood looking on.

CHROMIUM REFLECTOR FOR AUTO HEADLIGHTS

Washington — (AP) — Chromium, which can be electroplated on steel and is more permanent than nickel, has been found particularly suitable for reflectors in automobile headlights after an exhaustive research made by the bureau of standards. The research, undertaken to study the reflecting power of chromium, has extended to cover not only light in the visible portion of the spectrum but also the ultra-violet and infra-red. As a result it was found that chromium has much higher reflecting power than nickel in the ultra-violet and, since it is less affected by ultra-violet rays, it is more useful as a reflector of these rays. Data were also obtained on beryllium, another metal which is more easily obtained in commercial quantities through recent discoveries and may come into general use. Housewives of New Zealand are adopting electric labor-saving devices.

WOMEN MAY RULE IRELAND

Women have the majority in the new voting lists of Northern Ireland and it is expected to exert a strong influence in the coming election. The total number of voters was 783,871, composed of 400,915 women and 382,956 men, the women leading by 15,955. Fair voters have a majority in Belfast, Derry City, County Antrim and County Down, while the men outnumber them in the Counties of Derry, Armagh, Fermanagh and Tyrone. The increase in the voters' lists in the past year are 148,965 women and 13,550 men, the largest in the history of the franchise due to the extension of the franchise to women at 21 years of age, through the "Flapper" Bill passed at the last session of the Northern Parliament.

SWIMMING POOL TO OPEN MONDAY UNDER NEW HOURS

Schedule Effective Until June 1 Will Be Drawn Up by Officials

Kaukauna—Swimmers will be able to enjoy the facilities of the municipal swimming pool in the municipal building starting Monday, according to Herbert Weekworth, superintendent of the municipal utilities. A schedule has been drawn up which will be effective until June 1, after which a new schedule will go into effect.

The schedule will provide certain hours for high school students and for the general public. The pool has been closed through the winter on account of lack of patronage. Coach Elmer Ott of the high school will have charge of a school swimming squad of 20 members who will practice in the pool. Fay Fosson will be the attendant.

Girls will be allowed to swim on Mondays and Wednesdays from 3:15 until 4:30 in the afternoon. Boys will have the pool on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays. Tuesday and Thursday hours will be from 3:15 until 4:30 in the afternoon and on Wednesday the hours will be from 7 until 8 in the evening. This is for high school students.

The schedule for the general public will be from 7 to 8 o'clock Monday evenings for the ladies; 7 to 8 o'clock Thursday evenings for the men; 4:30 to 6:30 in the afternoon on Fridays for girls; and from 2 to 4:30 on Saturdays for boys.

The swimming pool has been repainted and is in first class shape for the opening day.

R. C. A. SEPARATES ITS MANY LINES OF RADIO ACTIVITIES

Trans-oceanic Communication Services Will Be Operated by Corporation

BY ROBERT MACK

Copyright 1929, by the Consolidated Press Association

Washington—The Radio Corporation of America has separated its communications activities from its many other lines of radio endeavor—a project long under contemplation. A new corporation, known as R. C. A. Communications Inc., has been created to take over the far-flung trans-oceanic communication services that now invade 30 foreign countries.

The new corporation will in substance be the original radio corporation of America which was organized at the behest of the government to take over trans-oceanic communications as a public service. The tremendous production, distribution and sales activities of the R. C. A. which have far out-ran its communications business were developed after the establishment of the communications company.

All of the stations licenses, construction permits and wave lengths as well as pending applications now in the name of the R. C. A. are turned over to the R. C. A. Communications Inc.

In dollars the establishment of the new corporation means the separation of activities that last year netted the R. C. A. about $5,000,000. The financial statement of commercial activities that showed a return of something like $7,000,000. From its trans-oceanic communications service the R. C. A. realized revenues of $4,595,511 in 1928. Its gross operating income, including the communications business was $101,551,603.18 and its total expense $73,000,000, showing a net profit of $28,551,603.18.

The radio marine corporation, which handles the ship-to-shore communications of the R. C. A., already is a separate organization and for the present will not be merged with the R. C. A. Communications Inc. Radio Marine had a gross income of $1,536,544 in 1928.

The complete change of operation probably will take effect within a month and it is proposed that General James C. Harbord, president of the R. C. A., will also become president of the new company.

The petition of the R. C. A. seeking transfer of the public service phase of its services bears the name of Raymond J. Gorham of New York, as president of the new company. It is explained that Mr. Gorham is associated with the Corporation Trust company, which negotiated the formation of the new company, and that he will resign as soon as R. C. A. Communications Inc., is in operation.

The entire stock of the new company of no par value will be owned by the R. C. A. It has an authorized capital stock of 300,000 shares. Of this amount 60,000 shares are "sold" to the R. C. A. at $50 a share or an aggregate of $3,000,000 to be used as the operating capital of the new company. The remaining 240,000 shares with a valuation of $12,000,000 are turned over to the R. C. A. for the communications stations, contracts, central office equipment, land titles and all other properties now used in the communications activities. It is safely can be said that R. C. A. values its communications value at a figure far in excess in that which it is turning these facilities over to its subsidiaries.

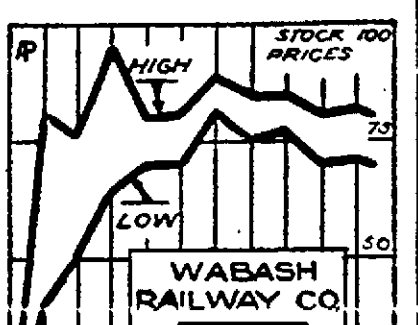

STOVEPIPE AIDS FISHERMEN

Norwegian fishermen have found a way to fish with the aid of stovepipe. A piece of glass is held by adhesive tape over one end of the pipe to form a "water telescope." When the end containing the glass is pushed into the water, the waves and ripples at the surface, the men say, they can see fish at a considerable depth below.

PAINTED LEGS PLEASE PARIS

Women of Paris are still enthusiastic over the bare-legged craze, which was adopted by many last summer and has been transferred from the seashore to indoors. New "Diatemper" designs, painted on the ankles have been added to the vogue, and as a result painted legs are making their appearance at dances.

WABASH GETS BACK PART OF OLD BUSINESS

St. Louis—(AP)—Earnings of the Wabash Railway, an important factor in the eastern railroad consolidation battle, recovered in 1928 from the slump of 1927 but were nearly $500,000 under the record figures established in 1926.

This line which operates 2,330 miles of road with centers located at Buffalo and Toledo and reaching Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City, Des Moines and Omaha, reports net operating income of $11,550,050 for last year. This compares to $9,611,677 in 1927 and $12,562,033 in 1926. Earnings per common share last year were equal to $1.23, compared to $1.76 in 1927 and $3.96 in 1926.

The company is now involved in litigation over dividend payments. No dividends were paid on any of the stocks from 1919 to 1921 and nothing to date has been paid on the common. Payments were resumed on the preferred "A" in May of 1923 and have been continued at the full 5 per cent rate since. Initial distribution on the "B" preferred was $5 on April 1, 1927, for the year 1926. The same amount was ordered paid in 1928, payable Feb. 6, 1929, but this was rescinded following suit brought by "A" shareholders.

This group demands payment of approximately $16,000,000, claimed to have been earned in prior years on "A" stock, before any dividends are paid on the "B" and common shares. United States court of appeals has upheld the "A" shareholders, and the company has announced it will carry the case to the supreme court for a review.

BLACK CREEK MAN SUFFERS BIG LOSS FROM FLOOD WATER

$1,000 Damage Done in Basement of Flour and Feed Store in Village

Special to Post-Crescent

Black Creek—H. A. Hoops, local flour and feed dealer, had $1,000 worth of corn damaged in his basement Wednesday afternoon by water. It came in through the windows and door of the basement and was 20 inches high in a short time. Water at the Froehlich-Gehrke hardware store also mounted to 30 inches in a short time. At 9 o'clock in the evening the water had receded eight inches. The sudden flood was due to the change in the drainage at the Soo Line railroad.

LE CAPTAIN'S RITES

Funeral services were held at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning at St. Mary church for James LeCaptain. Burial took place in the parish cemetery. The bearers were Le Roy Breitenbach, Horace Homig, Anthony Kronschmalde and Norbert Kitzinger. People from away who attended the funeral were Mrs. Charles Piette, Mrs. Ernest Bellin, Mrs. Theodore Calmes, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Le Captain, Mr. and Mrs. Julius Le Captain, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Last, Mr. and Mrs. William Last, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Schaefer, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Le Captain, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Le Captain, Misses Emma, Elsie and Louise Last, James Piette, Nick Schaefer and Emil Last of Appleton.

John Duhm, route 1, had his two fingers next to the thumb of the right hand cut into the bone of both fingers by a circular saw at the home of Walter Plaman, a neighbor, at 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The men were sawing wood. The physician is in doubt of saving his fingers.

'A FULL HOUSE' IS TITLE OF PLAY BY KIMBERLY CLASS

Comedy to Be Staged in April—Prepare for Speech Contest Try-outs

Special to Post-Crescent

Kimberly—The play of the Kimberly High school production class of 1929 has been selected and the members are practicing steadily so that they may be able to present it during the latter part of April. "A Full House," a comedy-farce in three acts, is the name of the play. The plot centers around some stolen jewelry, which must be found, and one blunder after another is made in trying to find the thief. Those in the cast are: Della Courchane, Ottilie Howell, a young bride; Marie Allie, Daphne, her sister; Frances Foremski, her aunt; Roger La Berge, George Howell, the young husband; Melvin Schness, Parks, the butler; Lyle Vande Velden, Ned Pembroke, son of the millionaire whose jewels have been taken; Mrs. Pembroke, owner of the jewels; Joseph Pollard, police sergeant; Wilfred Hartshorn, King, a crook; Ruth Elmhurst, Susie, a dumb maid; Ruth Sawyer Schwanke, Clancy, a policeman; Helen Martineau; Vera Veran, an actress; Mrs. Fleming, owner of the apartment; and John Doerflinger Mooney, policeman. The play is being directed by Miss Winifred Lynch.

Preparations are being made by the members of the declamatory and oratorical teams for the local try-outs to be held in the high school building on Friday evening, March 22. This contest is for elimination preceding a league contest to be held in the clubhouse here on April 5. Members of the league are: Hilbert, Reedsville, Stockbridge, Valders and Kimberly. Kimberly American Legion Post No. 60 is donating a 100% cash prize to the winner of the league contest. The winners of this contest will enter the district meet to be held at Menasha at a later date.

Those entering the high school declamatory contest of this village are: Ruth Schwanke, "Just a Pup," Della Courchane, "White Camellias," Frances Foremski, "The Unknown Soldier," Lawrence La Berge, "Mother of Mine," Helen Martineau, "Killing of Dan McGrew," Marie Allie, "Who's Afraid?" Catherine Verbeten, "Whistling Mother" and Marie Kokke, "On the Dark Trail." The following have entered the oratorical contest: Wilfred Hartshorn, "Capital Punishment," Roger La Berge, "Roll of Indulgence," Harry Van Himmelen, "Warfare," and Return of Idealism," and John Doerflinger, "Soviet Russia." The declamatory teams are being coached by Misses Theresa Schuch and Dorothy Wade, and the oratorical teams by J. E. Roberts.

The Boys Pioneer club entertained their father and Harold Morris at a farewell party in honor of Mr. Morris Tuesday evening in the Presbyterian church basement. Mr. Morris left Thursday for Ohio where he will accept a business position.

Mrs. Oscar Bihlke is visiting at the home of her parents at Whitcomb.

Mrs. Ben Couillard has returned from Lena where she attended the funeral of her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Allie.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman LeMay went to Oshkosh Tuesday to visit their daughter, Mrs. Oliver Matthey, who is confined at St. Vincent's hospital where she underwent an operation for appendicitis Tuesday morning.

Mr. Jansen, assistant cashier in the Kimberly State Bank, is in St. Elizabeth's Hospital where he underwent an operation of appendicitis.

WISCONSIN RIVER FLOOD NOT FEARED

Veteran River Men Are Unperturbed. Holding That Danger Is Slight

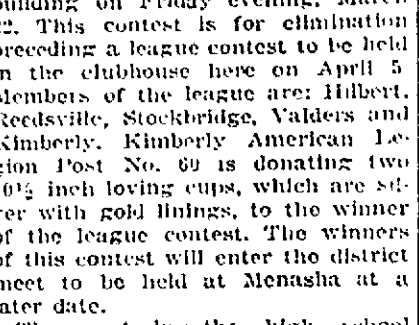

Wausau—(AP)—Oldtime Wisconsin river men refuse to become perturbed over anxious inquiries of city newspapers relative to possibility of a serious flood in the Wisconsin river valley this spring.

There never has been a spring flood in the valley, these old river men say, even when there has been an "old fashion winter" like the one just coming to a close. There is nothing, river men say, to warrant the anxiety of reporters, who have been asking them if late rains do not mean serious floods.

The precipitation has been but an inch, coming slowly, and the snow which has melted has gone off gradually. The river has risen scarcely an inch. In the woods, the water is soaking into the ground, and the prospect is that the ice in the river, when it "goes out" will do so very gradually, and that the stream will not be "bank full" at any time during the spring, anywhere along the river from Tomahawk south to Wisconsin Rapids, at least, a distance of nearly 80 miles.

Of course, it is pointed out, unexpected catastrophes might occur such as a dam being out or a cloudburst loosening a great amount of water in a few minutes, but these instances are so improbable that river men remain unperturbed.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers To Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work. They become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water for drinking before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

BALLOT NEXT WEEK ON APPOINTMENT OF NOYES

Madison—(AP)—Next Thursday the state senate will vote on the question of appointing the appointment of Harold Noyes to the state conservation commission.

Mr. Noyes was appointed by Governor Zimmerman when Eugene Wenzel resigned. Governor Kohlter sent the nomination to the senate for confirmation on Wednesday of this week.

MOVIE CENSORSHIP BILL IS OUTLINED

Measure Would Create Three-man Commission to Review Films

Madison—(AP)—The Prescott movie censorship bill, previously introduced by title in the Assembly several weeks ago, has been presented in detail, providing for a three-man "Wisconsin Motion Pictures Commission," appointed by the governor for two year terms.

The commission would be provided with officers by the superintendent of public property, under the bill. It would be empowered to appoint deputy commissioners and inspectors, who would work in various centers over the state.

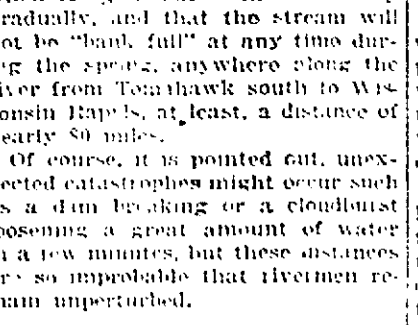

Any obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman or satirical picture or portion thereof could and would be barred by the commission and the movie exhibitors or the company submitting films to the board would pay $200 per thousand-foot reel for the inspection.

News reels, scientific pictures and films for educational purposes are exempt from the fee and need not even be submitted if a sworn statement is filed that they would be approved.

In each case where a film is killed or cut the commission would submit a written explanation of its action to the producer or distributor and that person or firm might appeal to the full commission from any of its members' or agents' decisions.

Advertisements for "bad" films and improper advertisements for films that might pass the commission would also be barred by the bill. The commission would report to the governor on the fifteenth of January each year, on the subjects it has reviewed, decisions and all of its acts.

BILL WOULD LICENSE OLEO MANUFACTURERS

Madison—(AP)—A bill providing for high license fees for manufacture and sale of oleomargarine and other butter substitutes has been introduced in the state senate by the committee on agriculture and labor. The measure requires a license fee of $1,000 to be paid annually to the dairy and food commissioner by all manufacturers of butter substitutes. A license fee of five hundred dollars is exacted of all producers of the product under the provision of the bill. Retailers' fees will be $100 and hotel and restaurants serving butter substitutes will be required to take out a license costing $50.

Boarding house proprietors serving the substitutes will be assessed ten dollars annually. A penalty of from one to five hundred dollars is provided for violation of the law and a prison term of not more than three months may be given under the proposed law.

MOVIE CENSORSHIP BILL IS OUTLINED

Measure Would Create Three-man Commission to Review Films

Madison—(AP)—The Prescott movie censorship bill, previously introduced by title in the Assembly several weeks ago, has been presented in detail, providing for a three-man "Wisconsin Motion Pictures Commission," appointed by the governor for two year terms.

The commission would be provided with officers by the superintendent of public property, under the bill. It would be empowered to appoint deputy commissioners and inspectors, who would work in various centers over the state.

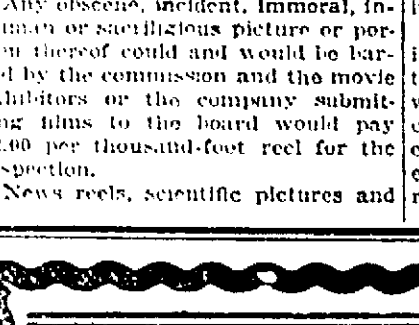

Any obscene, indecent, immoral, inhuman or satirical picture or portion thereof could and would be barred by the commission and the movie exhibitors or the company submitting films to the board would pay $200 per thousand-foot reel for the inspection.

News reels, scientific pictures and films for educational purposes are exempt from the fee and need not even be submitted if a sworn statement is filed that they would be approved.

In each case where a film is killed or cut the commission would submit a written explanation of its action to the producer or distributor and that person or firm might appeal to the full commission from any of its members' or agents' decisions.

Advertisements for "bad" films and improper advertisements for films that might pass the commission would also be barred by the bill. The commission would report to the governor on the fifteenth of January each year, on the subjects it has reviewed, decisions and all of its acts.

Are You Ready?

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times. All your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner done than Baby is soothed; relief is just a matter of moments. Yet you have eased your child without use of a single doubtful drug. Castoria is so safe to use as to be often as an infant has any little pain you cannot put away. And it's always ready for the crueler pains of colic, or constipation, or diarrhea; effective, too, for older children. Twenty-five million bottles were bought last year.

Fletcher's CASTORIA

The channel of the ancient Hudson river runs under the sea for many miles, showing that the land was once above the sea.

TAKE SALTS IF RHEUMATISM IS BOTHERING YOU

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers To Take Salts to Get Rid of Toxic Acid

Rheumatism is no respecter of age, sex, color or rank. It is not the most dangerous of human afflictions; it is one of the most painful. Those subject to rheumatism should act as possible, avoid any undue exposure and above all, drink lots of pure water.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid or body waste matter, and is often generated in the bowels and absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this poison from the blood and cast it out in the urine. In damp and chilly, cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work. They become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate this toxic acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain, called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water for drinking before breakfast each morning for a week. This is helpful to neutralize acidity, remove waste and stimulate the kidneys, thus helping to rid the blood of these rheumatic poisons.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

CITY IS JUDGED BY ITS C. OF C. BUSINESSMAN SAYS

Expansion Sales Army Will Meet Monday Preparatory to Campaign

"A city is judged by the chamber of commerce it maintains," Seymour Smeiner, president of Appleton Wood Products company, said Friday in referring to the chamber of commerce expansion program.

"There is most urgent need, in every community in the country, for some kind of an association or institution, having as its purpose the organization of community friendship with a view to the creation of good-will among all classes of the citizenry; the creation of intelligent public opinion on community problems and the stimulation of community activity to conscious and efficient direction of its own affairs. Ordinarily the chamber of commerce is the only organization capable of doing this work."

The modern city has adopted the chamber of commerce as the most dependable institution so far invented for civic progress. A city is known by the chamber of commerce it maintains."

Major and captains of the chamber expansion sales army Friday were rounding out the general sales group which will have charge of the solicitation of membership in the drive which will start next week. Monday evening the sales army will meet for final instructions before starting the task of selling the city of Appleton to itself through the forward expansion program.

The executive committee of the expansion movement met at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon to report on solicitations which have been carried on during the week.

Alexander Karr, educational director of the program, continued his series of addresses Thursday and Friday morning, talking to the Women's club, the American Legion, and salesmen of Appleton stores.

COMPETITION INCREASING

In expressing his opinion of the need for an expanded program of activity for the chamber of commerce, Kenneth Corbett, secretary of Appleton chamber said:

"Civic competition is on an increase. This fact has been definitely determined by statistics compiled by many national organizations. Commerce is the basis of the move, and is centralizing in the cities of the United States."

"To take its place in competition with other progressive cities in the bid of increased industrial and commercial growth, Appleton must have good transportation facilities, close proximity to markets, man power and raw material."

"Many cities including Appleton have these assets. However, all cities do not when it comes to some of the minor but deciding factors in its bid for business. The controlling and deciding factors in the bid for growth are sanitary living conditions; good government, fine educational facilities, equitable taxation, financial resources and organized co-operating businesses."

"All the controlling factors are in the hands of the people of the city. They can, by co-operation and diligent effort, help Appleton in its roll for growth and commercial leadership."

VETS NEED 70 MEN TO BEAT 1928 MARK

Oney Johnston Post Members Consider July 4 Celebration

Only 70 more members are needed by Oney Johnston post of the American Legion to give the post a 100 percent membership in comparison with last year, it was announced at the meeting of local members Thursday evening at the Elk club. Last year there were 640 members and this year 570 members have been signed so far.

Alexander Karr, educational director of the chamber of commerce expansion program, was the principal speaker, discussing with the legionaires the needs of the city and the accomplishments during the last 10 years.

Members of the high school band played several numbers in a musical program at the opening of the meeting. The band was asked to take part in the annual Memorial day parade, the most of the parade is a letter from high school authorities thanking the war veterans for a World War information chart which is being used in study of world war history.

The veterans discussed possibility of a July 4 celebration here this summer but laid the matter aside until the next meeting while a committee learns the attitude of the townspeople toward the program.

Six past commanders of the post attended the meeting. They were George Dame, Harvey Priebe, Clarence O. Batz, L. Hugo Keller, J. Norman Fisher, and Homer H. Denton.

FIVE TROOP 6 SCOUTS RECEIVE PROMOTIONS

Five boy scouts of Troop 6 of the St. Mary church were advanced to second class rank at a court of honor ceremony held in the troop rooms Wednesday evening. They are Robert O'Neil, Norbert Letter, Arthur Van Rysin, Carl Peerenboom and Robert Peerenboom. E. A. Killoran, chairman of the troop committee was in charge of the ceremony. Following the court of honor a social hour was held.

C. OF C. ISSUES NEW INFORMATION BULLETIN

The monthly information bulletin of the chamber of commerce was placed in the mails Thursday, according to chamber of commerce officers. The bulletin is mailed to all members of the bureau and contains general information of value to business houses.

SET DATE FOR INITIATION OF EAGLE CLASS

Recommendations made by officers at their dinner meeting were accepted at the regular meeting of Fraternal Order of Eagles Wednesday night, attended by more than 100 members. The recommendations were that the class initiation in honor of the Grand Worthy President, Ed Ryan of Philadelphia and the local president, Elmer Koerner, be held Wednesday evening, April 8 at the Lawrence Memorial chapel.

All candidates obligated from the first of February and applicants be received up to the meeting of March 27 will be initiated in this class, which is expected to number between 250 and 400. Invitations to attend the initiation will be extended to Menasha, Neenah, Kaukauna, Oshkosh, Fond du Lac, Manitowish, Green Bay and all aeries within a radius of 50 miles. The aeries will be invited to bring candidates for initiation, and the Oshkosh office will put on the work.

Otto Tilly, chairman of the annual Eagles Easter walk and two step party to be given by the local aerie Monday, April 1 for Eagles and their friends, reported that arrangements were about completed and that music will be provided by Mumm's orchestra.

Arthur Daelke, chairman of the minstrel show, to be given sometime after Easter has requested all members who wish to take part to be at the hall at 8 o'clock next Monday night for the first get together meeting.

Eight teams of the local aerie will bowl at the state Eagles bowling tournament which is now on at Oshkosh, on Saturday of this week. The local teams will take the alleys at 8 o'clock. All bowlers will meet at 6:15 at the hall. Rooters have been invited to accompany the team to Oshkosh.

DE MOLAYS GIVE DANCING PARTY

A lenten dancing party will entertain members of the John F. Rose chapter, Order of DeMolay and their friends Saturday night at Masonic temple. Sunday afternoon there will be a special meeting at which the initiatory degree will be exemplified for Harold Higgins. In the morning the members of the chapter will attend First Methodist Episcopal church in a body in observation of devotional day. Officers will be elected at a meeting at 7:30 Monday evening at the temple and the DeMolay degree will be exemplified.

FAIR AND COLDER IS WEEKEND PREDICTION

Fair and colder weather is on the menu for this vicinity for the next 24 hours, according to predictions of the weatherman.

The mercury will probably take a slight drop throughout the state. Showers are predicted for the southeast sections of Wisconsin.

Winds are spiriting from the northwest which usually means a drop in the mercury. At 6 o'clock Friday morning the mercury registered 34 degrees above zero and at noon the thermometer stood at 38 degrees above zero.

Bank Directors Meet

The board of directors of the Appleton State bank met Thursday afternoon to consider loans, and transact other business.

DEATHS

A. G. BRUSEWITZ
Funeral service for A. G. Brusewitz, 60, were held at 12:30 Thursday afternoon from the home in the town of Clero, followed by a service at Zion Evangelical church with the Rev. Carl Duft in charge. Interment was made in the parish cemetery in Chicago.

Mr. Brusewitz, previous to his death last Sunday morning, had served Outagamie county as highway commissioner for 14 years. In his memory the courthouse was closed Thursday afternoon to allow county officials to attend the last rites. Practically all members of the county board, all county officials and many contractors were present at the funeral. The church was crowded with people and many were unable to get inside.

Funeral services were six county supervisors: Milt Mack, Shiocton; Anton Jansen, Little Chute; John Nielsen, Kaukauna; William Beck, Seymour; P. H. Ryan, Appleton; and John Knapstein, Greenville.

WINKEL OPPOSES TRACY IN FIFTH WARD FOR BOARD

Nominated With Tracy for Supervisor Over Doro, Canvass Shows

Frank Winkel was nominated as candidate for supervisor from the Fifth ward with John Tracy over John J. Doro in the primary election Tuesday, a canvass of the votes by the common council Thursday afternoon revealed. Winkel, who has notified Gerald J. Becker, city clerk, of his acceptance of the nomination, received 38 votes, 19 in each precinct. Until the canvass, doubt prevailed as to whether Winkel or Doro was nominated, as the election board in the first precinct had failed to count the latter's votes.

George Miller, who polled 27 votes for supervisor from the Second ward, was nominated for the office. His name, like that of Winkel and Doro, was not on the ballot. He will oppose P. H. Ryan, incumbent, who is seeking reelection.

The only other name to be written in sufficient numbers for nomination was that of Max Bauer as alderman from the Third ward. He has accepted the nomination.

The canvass showed that Fred Sievert polled 35 votes to 208 for C. A. Heckert. A previous report said that Heckert had polled the largest number of votes.

The candidates from the wards are:

Aldermen
First ward, Michael Quinn, George Packard; Second ward, Oren Eide, John Diederich; Third ward, Walter Gmeiner, Max Bauer; Fourth ward, R. F. McGillan, Joe Hoffensperger; Fifth ward, W. H. Vanderheyden, Charles Fose; Sixth ward, Philipp Vogt, Fred W. Wiese.

Supervisors
First ward, L. F. Bushey, Otto Thiessenhusen; Second ward, P. H. Ryan, George Miller; Third ward, P. H. Ryan; Fourth ward, John Tracy, Frank Winkel; Fifth ward, Peter Rademacher, Andrew Ries; Sixth ward, Fred Sievert, C. A. Heckert.

School Commissioners
John Behnke, W. H. Kreiss.

PERSONALS

Miss Helen Ornstein of Chicago is visiting her parent, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ornstein.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Leist and family, 1128 W. Lawrence-st., will leave Appleton next week for Manitowish where they will live in the future.

25 PERSONS SNOWBOUND AT TAVERN IN WYOMING

Laramie, Wyo. (AP)—A horse pack train was being assembled here Friday to carry medical supplies and provisions to Summit Taver, 10 miles west of Laramie, where 25 persons are snowbound.

Frank King, manager of the inn which is at the peak of Sherman hill, some 8,000 feet above sea level, and Jack Daniels, who lives nearby, arrived here Thursday night on snowshoes after struggling through a deep snow that fell during a three day storm. They said the party had enough food to last several days but needed medical supplies immediately.

An elderly man was in a serious condition from exposure, King said. The remainder of the party was suffering from frozen hands, feet or ears.

King estimated that it would take at least two days to cover the distance from here to the tavern. The road is covered by snow four and five feet deep on the level.

The party includes ten passengers of an interstate bus, four members of the University of Wyoming basketball team, and motorists who abandoned their cars. Eight other members of the university team were brought here from the tavern Tuesday by truck.

The party is without means of communication with the outside.

WISCONSIN MAN DIES AS TEETH ARE PULLED

FRITZ FAILS IN HIS ROLE AS PROTECTOR OF MILWAUKEE HOME

Milwaukee (AP)—The status of Fritz as protector of home and hearth received a severe setback late Thursday.

He turned on the gas jet of the oven stove in the kitchen and almost killed himself and Mrs. Augusta Lasken, 81. Members of the fire department rescue squad worked more than a half hour before they revived the aged woman. A granddaughter returning from school found her and summoned aid.

Fritz—it may be well to mention it at this time—is a police dog. He needed only the fresh air to be revived.

CIGAR STORE OWNER STILL IS MISSING

Report That Man Was Freed by Kidnapers Proves to Be Unfounded

Chicago (AP)—The whereabouts of Joseph B. Dreil, chain cigar store owner who is said to have amassed a fortune through gambling operations, was still a mystery Friday, although police had previously reported he had been freed by kidnapers.

Dreil's automobile was forced to the curb Thursday shortly after he had taken his two children to school. Witnesses said three men forced him into their machine and drove off.

Police were told Thursday night that Dreil had been put out of an automobile blindfolded in Niles Center and had taken refuge in a Chicago hotel for the night. Efforts to find him Friday, however, were futile and police were inclined to believe the telephone call to a neighbor which reported Dreil safe was a ruse of the kidnapers.

The reported telephone conversation described in detail how his abductors had beaten him and tried to force him to pay a huge ransom, but without success. Police believed Dreil's kidnapers forced him to call the neighbor and report his release to throw detectives off the trail.

A housemaid, through a speaking tube, informed a police sergeant she had orders to permit no policeman inside the Dreil home.

New York (AP)—The stock market opened Friday with another burst of bullish enthusiasm. Radio (new stock) opened with a block of 30,000 shares at 102, up 1 1/2, and then moved up to 102 1/2. A high record, while the old stock opened at 50 1/2 and jumped to 51 1/2 on the next sale, up 1 point. Early gains of a point or two were recorded by U. S. Steel common, du Pont, student-baker, International Combustion, Columbia Graphophone and Kossia Insurance.

Early trading was in unusually heavy volume, several blocks of 5,000 to 25,000 shares changing hands at advancing prices.

Radio (old stock) jumped to 51 1/2 and the new stock crossed 103 to a new high. General Motors opened with a block of 35,000 shares at 90, a new high and Chrysler moved up more than 3 points. Coty, Goodyear Rubber, Anaconda Copper, du Pont and Bethlehem Steel all sold 3 to 6 points higher.

Foreign exchanges opened firm, with sterling cables 1-16 of a cent higher at $1.56 1/4.

The closing tone was strong. Total sales approximated 5,500,000 shares.

STATE ISSUES 44 LICENSES TO NEW CARS IN APPLETON

Secretary of State Says 72 Cars Purchased in County in February

Thirty-eight new pleasure cars and six new commercial automobiles were licensed in Appleton in February, according to a report from the secretary of state. This brings the total number of cars licensed in Appleton in the first two months of 1928 to 80 pleasure automobiles and 14 commercial machines.

A total of 72 new cars were licensed in the county in February as compared with 84 the same month in 1927. The first two months of the year Outagamie-co people purchased 153 new cars as compared with 188 in 1927. In the state last month the total new registrations were 3,331 or more than 150 less than in February, 1927, when there were 3,480 new registrations. The total number of new cars registered up to date in the state this year is 8,327 as compared with 7,427 in the same month last year.

Fords still lead the state in the number of new registrations with 2,727. Chevrolet is next with 1,420 while Essex is third with 651. Other makes of cars trail in diminishing numbers.

Following is a report of new registrations from a group of cities about the same size as Appleton. The first figure is the number of new registrations in February and the second figure is the number of new registrations to date: Appleton, 38, 80; Fond du Lac, 46, 94; Green Bay, 59, 155; Janesville, 51, 89; Manitowish, 28, 74; Marinette, 15, 29; Menasha, 9, 20; Neenah, 11, 27; Oshkosh, 73, 129; Sheboygan, 52, 123; Wausau, 55, 83.

KAUKAUNA FINALIST IN SCHOOL DEBATES

Madison—(AP)—Final debates in the northern central and southern sections of Wisconsin, to be held by Friday will determine the three high school teams to debate at Madison, April 5, for the state championship trophy cup of the Wisconsin high school forensics association.

Beaver Dam, Mayville and Waunakee are finalists in the southern section. Antigo, Baraboo and Kaukauna will debate for the honor of representing the central section. The three teams to compete in the northern section have not been announced but should be known to day, it is stated by Almere L. Scott, university extension division, secretary of the forensics association.

These nine teams competing in the section finals are the survivors of 125 school teams throughout the state that have been debating the question of Wisconsin's direct primary system during the last winter.

London spent more than $4,500,000 on public education last year.

Trusty Dogs Deliver Papers In Sherwood

Alaska? No, but a pair of dogs as trusty as Eskimo teams, and, considering the past winter, just as hardy.

These dogs, Prince and King, have been delivering Appleton Post-Crescents in Sherwood and vicinity for the past three years. Their master is Clifford Koutnick, son of Mrs.

Edward Koutnick, who also has been on the job for three years.

Prince is a St. Bernard, and King a police dog, and no matter how high the snow or how bitter cold the day, they are on deck to carry the days news from the train to the reading public of Sherwood.

nounced but should be known to day, it is stated by Almere L. Scott, university extension division, secretary of the forensics association.

These nine teams competing in the section finals are the survivors of 125 school teams throughout the state that have been debating the question of Wisconsin's direct primary system during the last winter.
